Your hands on the future!

When you grip the wheel of an Air Force jet, your hands are on a fast, high flying future that leads to the top in jet aviation.

1. Once behind the controls of an Air Force jet, you have the knowledge of afighter pilot. You will be able to make decisions that can mean the difference between life and death. You will be able to fly at supersonic speeds, and you will be able to maneuver your aircraft with precision.

2. Your training will be comprehensive. You will learn the skills necessary to fly an aircraft, including navigation, communication, and troubleshooting. You will also learn about the history of aviation, and the role that it has played in the world.

3. You will be part of a team. You will work with a crew of other pilots, and you will be responsible for the safety and well-being of your teammates. You will also work closely with your instructors, who will help you learn the skills necessary to be a successful pilot.

4. You will be challenged. The world of aviation is constantly changing, and you will need to be prepared to adjust to new technologies and new challenges. You will be able to apply your skills in real-world situations, and you will be able to make a difference in the world.

Where to get more details:
- For more information, contact your local Air Force Recruiting Station or visit the official Air Force website.
- You can also contact your local college or university for information on aviation programs.
- You can also visit the Air Force ROTC program to learn more about the opportunities available.

---

Skaters Lose To URI: Last Frame Fatal For Tech

The Tech hockey team lost their third straight game of the season as they were beaten by a University of Rhode Island team 6-4, at the Bone.

Bob Adams, family URI skater, led victory with one goal and two assists.

Rhode Island drew first blood as a Adams scored midway through the first period. Tech countered with a tally from fifteen feet to cut RI's lead to 1-1. Harold Wells '53 blasted this one in for Tech's only goal of the first period. The visitors added two more markers and led 3-1 at the intermission.

The Beavers play West Point at 7:00 P.M. at the Lynn Arena. Tech won the last game against West Point, 3-2, in overtime.

---

Bibliodynamics—The Charles Hayden Memorial Library

As an Air Force jet, you get on the ground floor of jet aviation, learn to fly at supersonic speeds, and you will be able to maneuver your aircraft with precision. You will work with a crew of other pilots, and you will be responsible for the safety and well-being of your teammates. You will also work closely with your instructors, who will help you learn the skills necessary to be a successful pilot. The world of aviation is constantly changing, and you will need to be prepared to adjust to new technologies and new challenges. You will be able to apply your skills in real-world situations, and you will be able to make a difference in the world.