WMIT Schedule Of Classical Music

10:55-12 MUSIC IMMORTAL
Beethoven: Symphony 7
Mozart: Flute concerto 10
Mozart: Overture

CONCERT 4ALL
Sunday, March 9
The Seasons
Handel: The Seasons (oratorio)

10:55-12 MUSIC IMMORTAL
Beethoven: Symphony 2
Mozart: Serenade in C

Wednesday, March 10
Beethoven: Violin and oboe concerto

3-10 FEATURE CONCERT

Monday, March 8
8:30-12 CONCERT HALL
Beethoven: Piano Concerto 5
Dvorak: Cello Concerto
Haydn: Symphony 83

TO BE ANNOUNCED

STAFF CANDIDATES
Charles Feldman, ’57; Charles Perez, ’56; Philip Mitchell, ’57; Alan S. Esbitt, ’57; Gerald Glazounov.

STAFF MEMBERS
Ben Chertok, ’57; Robert Berg, ’57; Peter Richards, ’57; John Retzer, ’57; John Jacob.

OFFICE OF THE TECH

CHARLES FIELDMAN, ’57; ROBERT BERG, ’57; PHILIP MITCHELL, ’57; ALAN S. ESBITT, ’57; GERARD GLAZOUNOV.

PUBLISHED BY THE DORMITORY COUNCIL, INC., BOSTON, MASS.

Figure 1: Advertisement for the Dormitory Council's elections, featuring candidates and their qualifications.

More Elections

The elections to be held next Tuesday will complete the makeup of the new Institute Committees; ten more representatives will be elected. Because of the fact that the living groups will vote separately, there may be a good deal of confusion. Nevertheless, the students should remember that the men they choose will be seated on the highest council of student government. These men should be the ones who can handle the affairs of the dorms, with some constructive ideas of their own. This year, Institute Committees will be operating under a new system; there will be fewer members than in the old system; the administrative difficulties have been eliminated. Under this new system, the committee should prove easier to handle, and undoubtedly will consume less time tied up in red tape.

The importance of considering platforms and proposals rather than activity records and popularity cannot be overemphasized. If it is the job of the Institute Committee to administer student government, we have already called attention to some of the issues that are important to the students in the spring elections. Despite this, many candidates have ignored these issues and have chosen to run on popularity or catchy campaign slogans. A position on the Institute Committee is certainly one of honor and importance; it is not one to be taken lightly or humorously. Before voting, the students should, therefore, consider seriously the fact that they will be electing the men who will control student government next year.

At Last—a Winner

After many years of drought, including a pathetic one-and-sixteen season last year, the M.I.T. basketball team has returned to winning ways. During the last six weeks, the team won even out of eight. It was especially pleasant to watch a winning team. This next Monday, there will be a benefit game between the varsity team and a picked intramural squad. The preliminary, however, promises to be just as interesting, for the freshman team and a picked intramural squad. This game will provide everyone with a chance to visit Walker Memorial and also to see if the head coach is better than the coach of the old administration. If the students can give the faculty a good roasting, this is the best chance to fill the gymnasium and make some noise in years.

Under the Table

The action of the Dormitory Council in advertising their Christmas Formal with empty liquor bottles this past December only served to bring out the fact that it is common practice at the Institute to serve drinks to anyone who can reach to the top of the table. It would not be surprising if the administration was sometime surprised at this flaunting of Massachusetts state liquor regulations. In the near future the administration will probably investigate the situation of drinking off campus; and in fraternity—quite widely. Such an investigation would reveal that no small number of under-age students engage in illicit imbibing. With a strong possibility of a probe such as this, it would certainly be advisable for the average M.I.T. nineteen-year-old to do his drinking in some convenient out-of-the-way place such as under the table or in a nearby closet.

The Tech

Friday, March 5, 1954

The Tech