— Intellectual Safety

Having discussed military measures for national defense and the role of research in the development of consumer safety, Dr. Killian stressed the importance of intellectual and moral safety—the protection of our freedom in our educational institutions.

"Military strength or foreign alliance," he said, "are not enough to preserve the safety of the nation.
The stamping out of subversion is not easy. These essential safety measures are but incidentals to our central ‘task of maintaining our national integrity, of protecting the coalition of democracy, concepts, and ideals which give our society its meaning, unity, and stability.

"Our schools have a crucial responsibility in safeguarding our national integrity. They must exemplify our national ideals of equality, social justice, freedom, and individual dignity.
They must cultivate and refine the moral ideals which is the cement of our society.

"In exemplifying these national ideals, the universities must serve as the chief custodians of our national heritage. The nation expects them to serve as a forum of standards for our intellectual and spiritual weights and measures, rejecting what is superfluous, trivial, and mediocre. They must provide a free market of ideas where error can be revealed and objectivity and truth can be confirmed. They constitute a laboratory where young minds may free themselves from the conventions as they develop their individuality and their sense of moral responsibility. If the universities do their job well, they provide an 'habit-ual vision of greatness' to guide and inspire both young and old.

"To paraphrase John Brokan, it is the business of education to build quality into the nation and to educate our people into a nobler life."

Softball

The Westgate nine has defeated Burton House B 13-3, Lenox Club 7-0, and Chi 914 14-1, and seem a clinch to win the first game to qualify.

The other big surprise team has been Kappa Sigma, picked recently in this column as the dark-horse contender. I am happy to say the Kappa Sigs have lived up to expectations.
In their big game, the Kappa Sigma upset a powerful IAE team 2-1 behind the fabulous hurling of Tony Moran.
Mora has been treated as the hardest hitter in the intramurals, and if his performance against IAE is any indication, he is going to give a fleet of good teams an useful bit of trouble.
Kappa Sigma's weaknesses in the hitting and fielding departments, however, seem to preclude the possibility of their winning the whole shebang.

Grad. A Sigma Nu Ted Graduate House A and Sigma Nu are tied for first place in League I.
The Graduates defeated the Sigma Nu team, but have a forfeit on the record which will probably force a playoff between the two. Delta Psi is also registering a 2-1 slate but stands little chance of beating either of the uncontested pair.

In League IV, TEP has celebrated its first victory over Phi Kappa, regaining first place with a 17-1 rout of Phi Kappa. Early season victims of this will be available as part of the program
sumer safety. The work was commissioned in 1953. It embodies a concept of instrumental scoring for concert band
