TCA Lists Needs For $55: Seeks $4800 Next Week

During the week of Nov. 29 to Dec. 3 every student at the Institute will be requested to help the Technology Christian Association raise the $4800 needed to defray their expenses for the coming year. In order that those who are interested may plan in advance to contribute, they are asked to publish their complete budget for next year.

The sum $4800 is required to cover past expenditures and planned extensions of services. Since every dollar of this year's goal has already been solicited, students will be asked for any amount short of the $4800, so that no restriction will be placed on the services of TCA.

The largest item on the budget appears as $232 for the Religious Action Committee. This figure is anticipated to cover the cost of publicity and gatherings for the numerous guest speakers sponsored by TCA. The remainder is to be utilized among the Student Christian Movement, International Christian Fellowship, O.A.T-KA and other conferences attended by MIT students.

The Student Christian movement of Bur- sardia Bay is administered and maintained entirely by TCA. This large duplex cottage is a very popular weekend attraction for most of MIT's Christian students, but it costs TCA $490 a year for rent, which has to be raised from the weekly dues at Tech House. Contributions to the drive are the only income for this service.

The Public Relations Department handles several of TCA's services to the campus and community. Included in the cost of $280 is $200 for expenses of the TCA-Theta Chi Amateurs' Theater. This theater is attended by all TCA members and the coordinators of the Christmas party for the unprivileged children of the neighborhood. The department is also responsible for all of TCA's services to the East Campus.

Recognized in the budget is the Tigertone, a weekly, tabloid and musical newspaper of nearly $1500 in theater and travel tickets, should cost $190 next year instead of $24,000 in theater and travel tickets. Expenses incurred within the TCA offer itself amount to about $1000. These expenses include $76 for the General Rubber bill of $600. General office supplies are budgeted at $417. The Tigertone alone is budgeted at nearly $1000 in theater and travel tickets, should cost $190 next year instead of $24,000 in theater and travel tickets.
