AIEE-IRE Shows New Energy Labs At Recent Meeting

Last week's meeting of the AIEE-IRE was highlighted by the exposition of the new and improved facilities of the Energy Conversion Laboratory in the basement of Building 10.

Professor Gordon B. Brown, head of Course VI, was the first speaker. Among the topics he touched upon was the increasing importance of the Electrical Engineer in controlling the processes of the other technical areas through his superior understanding and adaptation of instrumentation.

Professor David C. White, in charge of the Energy Conversion Lab, then discussed the new facilities which alterations this summer have provided. He was followed by Professor John G. Trump who spoke about Thesis Outlines. Prof. Trump is in charge of the Thesis Proposals Committee for Course VI.

About 200 students attended the meeting which was arranged by the student Editorial Board of the AIEE-IRE in conjunction with the Course VI Student-Faculty committee. Refreshments were served.
