Moral Questions, Rewards, Topic Of Special Inscomm Discussion; Plans Investigation Of Activities

by Arthur H. Schultz '57

The Inscomm meeting of March was devoted chiefly to discussion of and action upon the moral issues faced by students. The influence of the discussion on specific moral issues, for example whether the Ju démocracy and the Communists should be blacklisted, was not very apparent.

Nominations Open For Goodwin Award

by Beth Weeks '58

At this time each year the Institute presents the award of the Goodwin Meda l to a graducate student in recognition of his or her outstanding performance in active service to the Institute. Among the candidates for the Goodwin Medal are

Professor Charles W. Reddick, Mechanical Engineering Department; Dr. Elmer

L. Burdick, Mechanical Engineering Department; and Dr. James D. Richardson, Mechanical Engineering Department.

The criteria for the award include outstanding performance in active service to the Institute, outstanding scholarship, and demonstrated leadership.

The winner of the Goodwin Medal will be announced at the Goodwin Medal Dinner on April 29, at which time the award will be presented.

In the meantime, nominations for the Goodwin Medal are solicited from students, faculty, and alumni. Nominations should be submitted to the Chair of the Committee on the Goodwin Medal, by April 15.

The Tech's Crossing 50th Tech Show

by Stephen Auerbach '58

The Inscomm meeting on morals and ethics, held Wednesday in the Main Street Chapel, ended with a question and answer period on the topic of ethics.

The discussion centered on the question of whether students should be required to take ethics courses.

The debate was divided into two sides: those who believed ethics courses were necessary and those who believed they were unnecessary.

The debate was closed with a vote, and the decision was made to continue the discussion in the next meeting of Inscomm.

Tyde's Crossing 50th Tech Show

Tyde's Crossing, an original musical comedy, will be presented by MIT students, March 10, 11, and 12, at 8:00 p.m. in the Central Cafeteria. The show, which is expected to attract a large audience, will feature a variety of musical numbers, comedy sketches, and audience participation.

The musical will be directed by Dr. Joseph Tyde '58, and will end on April 30 with a grand finale. Tickets for all performances are available at the door.
