In the trend set by Dramashop's production of 'The King and the Duke,' by Ernest P. Abrahams '14, the major topic on the agenda of last Wednesday's Inscomm meeting was the question of who shall receive free rings. The major topic of controversy concerning the senior rings was the question of who shall receive free rings and who shall not. There was also some confusion due to poor communication between the chairman and his coordinated with respect to Inscomm's opinion on the free rings.

Included in Juden's report were ten recommendations concerning the behavior of this ring committee and future committees. One of these recommendations concerned payment, which should be made in full by the current trend in student riots. The current trend in student riots might make things a little difficult for those who have to appear in court next week.
