Serious Shortage Of Dormitory Space Forces Many Into Residence Off Campus: No Relief Of Situation Seen By Next Year

One hundred seventy-five upperclassmen cannot yet be accommodated in the dormitories this year. There are no indications at present that the situation will improve. A group of students, largely made up of transfers and upperclassmen whose rooms assignments were made before the fall term, has been forced to find residence off campus or sleep on couches in the Blue Room because of the acute shortage in dormitory space.

There are several reasons for this shortage of dormitory space. For one, one hundred and forty are freshmen who did not have the opportunity to apply for dormitory space before the fall term started.

Another factor causing the lack of space is the increasing concern with value and an acute shortage of dormitory space.

Mr. Thresher, the Director of Admissions, said that about 300 men are suspended between them and 12:00 o'clock.

Orthodox Group Holds Services

Bishop Athenagoras, spiritual leader of the Greek Orthodox church, will visit MIT tomorrow to take part in the first Episco-pal Holy Communion Service in the new chapel. The service will be held at 5:10 p.m., with Bishop Nash preaching. Brother Peter, Bishop Nash's assistant, will be serving in the chapel.

The Orthodox Christian Fellowship at MIT, which sponsored the first Greek Orthodox service held in the new chapel last Thursday, will participate in the service.

The Orthodox Church will visit MIT for the first time, and will probably continue through October 1 or 2, depending on the schedule of services.

The maintenance of Walker gym is a temporary living space, and no immediate remedy is offered by the.

Serious shortage of dormitory space forces many into residence off campus: no relief of situation seen by next year. The dormitories this year are overcrowded. There are no indications that the situation will improve. A group of students, mainly transfers and upperclassmen whose room assignments were made before the fall term, have been forced to find residence off campus or sleep on couches in the Blue Room.

Several reasons for the shortage include: first, the increasing concern with value and an acute shortage of dormitory space; and second, the huge freshman class that has left the small classes was 55, while the first of the larger classes was 50. Small classes were graduated last spring and a large class admitted this fall, to the great delight of many students. It is a part of the difficulty that can be traced. By Prof. Theodore H. White, writing in the New York Times.

FREDERICK G. FASSETT, JR.
SYMPHONY TICKETS
Tickets for the Boston Symphony Orchestra Concert at the Kresge Auditorium, October 13, are no longer available at Professor Lipman's office.

Ecclesiastical Student Conference, and to John Howe '07, who is scheduled to speak at the convocation and will make an announcement of extraordinary inter-

In the past six years about 1000 students have graduated. The need of Walker gymnasium is critical. There is apparently no other source of income in the building of Baker House. In the past six years about 1000 students have graduated. The need of Walker gymnasium is critical. There is apparently no other source of income in the building of Baker House.

The maintenance of Walker gym as a temporary living space, and no immediate remedy is offered by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.