Dormon (Continued from page 1) over the other houses is getting things done* and that the other houses might do well to study the actions of the Burton House Committees.

A Burton House resolution: "No non-resident may enter Burton House for the purpose of bailing" was approved. In effect, it was Dorman, when a motion to void the resolution was defeated.

The Burton House Committee reports also told of efforts to increase mutual facilities by a proposal to ask for putting of a grass strip near the West Campus tennis courts. However, action cannot be expected during the near future, said Dorman secretary Bruce Brelsford '64.

The rough draft of a questionnaire which will be sent to all dormitory students, was read. The letter asks for student opinions about open-house hours, and is part of a Rules and Regulations Committee survey which will be used by Dorman in its administration of the open-house rules, a privilege which has been granted only this year and on a trial basis.

Munch Interview (Continued from page 1) evening.

Q: Would you like to make any comments as to the contributions this auditorium can make to Boston's cultural and specifically musical activities?

A: For the presentation of a program of great music like tonight's, for conferences and the like, yes. In fact, it was I who had suggested the idea to your President of inaugurating the new season with a concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the auditorium.

Q: Would you have any personal comments or message you would like to transmit to the student body?

A: I was very pleased with the warmth which I received from both the Institute and the students. You are extremely lucky to be able to work in such a place as MIT. I am well informed, for I now have a nephew who came here this year to study Naval Architecture, and who is extremely lucky to be able to attend the Institute and the students. You can do well to study the actions of the Burton House Committee.

The Burton House Committee, was read. The letter asks for student opinions about open-house hours, and is part of a Rules and Regulations Committee survey which will be used by Dorman in its administration of the open-house rules, a privilege which has been granted only this year and on a trial basis.

Munch Interview (Continued from page 1) evening.

Q: Would you like to make any comments as to the contributions this auditorium can make to Boston's cultural and specifically musical activities?

A: For the presentation of a program of great music like tonight's, for conferences and the like, yes. In fact, it was I who had suggested the idea to your President of inaugurating the new season with a concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the auditorium.

Q: Would you have any personal comments or message you would like to transmit to the student body?

A: I was very pleased with the warmth which I received from both the Institute and the students. You are extremely lucky to be able to work in such a place as MIT. I am well informed, for I now have a nephew who came here this year to study Naval Architecture, and who is extremely lucky to be able to attend the Institute and the students. You can do well to study the actions of the Burton House Committee.

The Burton House Committee, was read. The letter asks for student opinions about open-house hours, and is part of a Rules and Regulations Committee survey which will be used by Dorman in its administration of the open-house rules, a privilege which has been granted only this year and on a trial basis.

Munch Interview (Continued from page 1) evening.

Q: Would you like to make any comments as to the contributions this auditorium can make to Boston's cultural and specifically musical activities?

A: For the presentation of a program of great music like tonight's, for conferences and the like, yes. In fact, it was I who had suggested the idea to your President of inaugurating the new season with a concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the auditorium.

Q: Would you have any personal comments or message you would like to transmit to the student body?

A: I was very pleased with the warmth which I received from both the Institute and the students. You are extremely lucky to be able to work in such a place as MIT. I am well informed, for I now have a nephew who came here this year to study Naval Architecture, and who is extremely lucky to be able to attend the Institute and the students. You can do well to study the actions of the Burton House Committee.

The Burton House Committee, was read. The letter asks for student opinions about open-house hours, and is part of a Rules and Regulations Committee survey which will be used by Dorman in its administration of the open-house rules, a privilege which has been granted only this year and on a trial basis.

Munch Interview (Continued from page 1) evening.

Q: Would you like to make any comments as to the contributions this auditorium can make to Boston's cultural and specifically musical activities?

A: For the presentation of a program of great music like tonight's, for conferences and the like, yes. In fact, it was I who had suggested the idea to your President of inaugurating the new season with a concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the auditorium.

Q: Would you have any personal comments or message you would like to transmit to the student body?

A: I was very pleased with the warmth which I received from both the Institute and the students. You are extremely lucky to be able to work in such a place as MIT. I am well informed, for I now have a nephew who came here this year to study Naval Architecture, and who is extremely lucky to be able to attend the Institute and the students. You can do well to study the actions of the Burton House Committee.

The Burton House Committee, was read. The letter asks for student opinions about open-house hours, and is part of a Rules and Regulations Committee survey which will be used by Dorman in its administration of the open-house rules, a privilege which has been granted only this year and on a trial basis.

Munch Interview (Continued from page 1) evening.

Q: Would you like to make any comments as to the contributions this auditorium can make to Boston's cultural and specifically musical activities?

A: For the presentation of a program of great music like tonight's, for conferences and the like, yes. In fact, it was I who had suggested the idea to your President of inaugurating the new season with a concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the auditorium.

Q: Would you have any personal comments or message you would like to transmit to the student body?

A: I was very pleased with the warmth which I received from both the Institute and the students. You are extremely lucky to be able to work in such a place as MIT. I am well informed, for I now have a nephew who came here this year to study Naval Architecture, and who is extremely lucky to be able to attend the Institute and the students. You can do well to study the actions of the Burton House Committee.

The Burton House Committee, was read. The letter asks for student opinions about open-house hours, and is part of a Rules and Regulations Committee survey which will be used by Dorman in its administration of the open-house rules, a privilege which has been granted only this year and on a trial basis.

Munch Interview (Continued from page 1) evening.

Q: Would you like to make any comments as to the contributions this auditorium can make to Boston's cultural and specifically musical activities?

A: For the presentation of a program of great music like tonight's, for conferences and the like, yes. In fact, it was I who had suggested the idea to your President of inaugurating the new season with a concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the auditorium.

Q: Would you have any personal comments or message you would like to transmit to the student body?

A: I was very pleased with the warmth which I received from both the Institute and the students. You are extremely lucky to be able to work in such a place as MIT. I am well informed, for I now have a nephew who came here this year to study Naval Architecture, and who is extremely lucky to be able to attend the Institute and the students. You can do well to study the actions of the Burton House Committee.

The Burton House Committee, was read. The letter asks for student opinions about open-house hours, and is part of a Rules and Regulations Committee survey which will be used by Dorman in its administration of the open-house rules, a privilege which has been granted only this year and on a trial basis.

Munch Interview (Continued from page 1) evening.

Q: Would you like to make any comments as to the contributions this auditorium can make to Boston's cultural and specifically musical activities?

A: For the presentation of a program of great music like tonight's, for conferences and the like, yes. In fact, it was I who had suggested the idea to your President of inaugurating the new season with a concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the auditorium.

Q: Would you have any personal comments or message you would like to transmit to the student body?

A: I was very pleased with the warmth which I received from both the Institute and the students. You are extremely lucky to be able to work in such a place as MIT. I am well informed, for I now have a nephew who came here this year to study Naval Architecture, and who is extremely lucky to be able to attend the Institute and the students. You can do well to study the actions of the Burton House Committee.

The Burton House Committee, was read. The letter asks for student opinions about open-house hours, and is part of a Rules and Regulations Committee survey which will be used by Dorman in its administration of the open-house rules, a privilege which has been granted only this year and on a trial basis.