Vote For JP Queen
Begins Tomorrow

Election of the Junior Prom-Field Day Queen will be held all day Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. All undergraduates will have the opportunity to vote for five of the fifteen candidates at the voting booths in Building 26.

The five finalists chosen will meet with the judges who will decide the winner. The judges will include two members from the JP committee, two from the Field Day Committee and one from the Public Relations Committee. After the announcement, all the fun, the Queen will proceed over Field Day, the Cocktail Party, and the Saturday Night Dance.

outside the Institute
The work of the Center reflects the feeling that the Institute, being a center of natural sciences and engineering, should devote more attention to the social, political, and economic aspects of technological change. As part of its activities, the Center hopes to develop teaching materials in the humanities and conferences for analyzing American history in terms of the social sciences.

Sophomore Gridders Win First In Five Years Over Tabor Academy

From the start of the second half the gridders were a new team. They received the second half kickoff, and in a series of eight drives, moved the ball sixty yards for a TD, culminated by an 8-yard drive up the middle by fullback John McCarty. John Kips scored the TD, and after a series of eight, the Tech went on to the 25-yd. line. This touchdown was taken back on a fumble by Tabor's bill. The drive was halted by a fumble. The ball changed hands several times through the rest of the quarter, neither squad being able to mount a successful attack. Only one pass was thrown in the entire quarter as the teams tasted each other's rushing defenses.

Early in the second quarter Tabor connected for a 20-yard pass that put them on Tech's 50-yd. line. After a series of running plays, Tabor set up a field goal, quite rare for Tabor at this juncture and unnecessary after their string of touchdowns. The Tech squad moved quickly, picking up two first downs, only to have their drive halted by a fumble. The ball changed hands several times through the rest of the quarter, neither squad being able to mount a successful attack. Only one pass was thrown in the entire quarter as the teams tasted each other's rushing defenses.

The fourth quarter saw a continuation of MIT's superiority, with halfback John Kips, who turned in a fine season, doing most of the damage through the center of right end, and '58 went ahead 7 to 0. This touchdown was taken back on a fumble by Tabor's line. The drive was halted by a fumble. The ball changed hands several times through the rest of the quarter, neither squad being able to mount a successful attack. Only one pass was thrown in the entire quarter as the teams tasted each other's rushing defenses.

MEN NEEDED
There are still several openings on the sports staff for reporters on the following sports: soccer, sailing, Field Day crew, and Field Day swimming. Men who are actively participating on the squads are preferred, but tryouts are open to those who are acquainted with the various sports.

Tech Harriers Top NH Varsity, Frosh

Displaying the form and balance characteristic of recent successful Tech cross-country teams, the MIT harriers easily whipped their University of New Hampshire opponents in a dual meet last Saturday. The score was 25-0. The varsity, which was held on the friendly home environs of Boston's Franklin Park, followed Freshmen competition between the two schools in which the Beaver yearlings were less impressive than their elders, being vanquished by a 17-46 count.

Coach Goodrich's strategy of having his men run together in a pack, as long as possible and of forcing dividends on the cool, wind-swept, and choppy course. The all important balance so necessary to the development of a winning team showed itself in the first meet victory of the season for Tech. Paced by Capt. Bruce White, Scott Kuckes '56, who finished in a dead heat for first, the Beaver harriers also picked up fifth, sixth, eighth, ninth and tenth places. These spots were grabbed by Jack Stell '56, Ed Carter '56, Pete Cassidy '56, Walt Kinsey '56, and Bob Solomon '56, respectively. The team was comfortably leading by the season's debut of Brazil which should be rivalled in future meets. The Wildcat season was paced by Don Vandecker and Banns Giles who took third and fourth. The winning time turned in by Vaughn and Rose in 30:07 was a result of the Beaver's hard work and was well within the average of Buell who should be watched in future meets. The Wildcats were paced in 31:02 by Captain Ray Smith '56 and Dave Underwood '56.
