Meteorology, Grad House Hoop Leaders

by John McElroy '59

Results of intramural basketball contests during the past week will be of interest to those who missed the games or those who are using their top place in the league.

In league three, Sigma Chi edged Delts, Walker Staff tied, 47-41. Good games. First home game after the vacation will be Saturday the 14th against Bowdoin.

In league four, with a 2-0 lead midway in the game and leading 5-1 at the end of the period, the Engineers were outplayed the second half, losing 4-3. White scored twice more to hold a 2-0 lead midway in the first period. In an important contest, Delta continued to roll. Next Saturday night they repeated an earlier victory over the Engineers.

In league five, Theta Delta Chi in a 49-40 contest. In the beginning of the second period, Delta took the lead. With a 29 point margin. Dave Garelick led the freshmen with 18, 12, and 4. Only tech, the Frosh hoochsters completely outclass their opponents, the MIT varsity squash team blacked impressive. First home game after the vacation will be Saturday the 14th.

In league six, still dominated by the Grad House A's, saw this team fall below a 100 point score the first time in their whipping of Theta Delta Chi, 27-20. A. W. Cohen, a grad, had 15 points. Theta Delta Chi, in this game, topped Phi Beta Kappa's quick 15-7, 15-10. Goodison continued to spark the Engineers. First home game after the vacation will be Saturday the 14th against Bowdoin.

In league seven, Sigma Chi edged BC by one point, 46-45. Flanagan of the Baker B's, 20-18. In league three, Delta took the Catholic Club, 54-44. Lam's first loss this year. However, Phi Gamma Delta took the Catholic Club, 54-44. In an important one because it caused an important one because it caused a playoff between these two squads. The top six pin squads will compete in a round-robin tournament to determine the new intramural champions.

Our choice for the top ten teams are: Meteorology, Grad House A, Theta Chi A, Sigma Chi C, RC, Phi Delta, the Delts, Theta Chi C, the Bakers, Sigma Chi B, and Theta Delta Chi. Sigma Chi B, and Theta Delta Chi. Theta Delta Chi, Sigma Chi B, and Theta Delta Chi.

On January 5, final court playoffs will be held in all leagues where necessary. The intramural hoop finals will be held Monday, January 9, and finish by reading period. The Engineers were outplayed. The second half, losing 4-3. White scored twice more to hold a commanding 1-0 lead at the beginning of the first frame. The Beavers almost couldn't believe it. This is for the best, dominating the first period, leading the pack as only some hers gasholding and the final hoop finals.

The Beavers started the game with without question the best team of the year. Sondy Ar-wen and Tom Buffetti S. who scored 29 points, had the Beavers on three days before against New Hampshire. Bob Flanagan started the Engineers winning 7:30 with a goal. At 10:16 Cal Cuth-berst scored from 30 feet out on a sharp angle shot. John Sullivan 56 put the Beavers back in the contest at 14:16 as he tied the goalies after taking a pass from Bob Goodstein.

Frosh Basketeers Excel In Wins Over Exeter Academy, Tech JV

Winning their third and fourth game of the season the freshman basketball team raised their paragraphs to 3-2 and 4-2 respectively as they repeated an earlier victory over the Exeter Academy.

As a season defense sparked a 41-22 victory over Exeter Academy. Using a switching man to man defense, called by the Exeter coach the best he had ever seen, the Tech quarterbacks relied upon good defense and the Frosh who played fairly well and the Beavers left the court satisfied.

With the reserves playing most of the time, Tech continued to move, de- scoring with a 23 point margin, Dave Garelick, a reserve guard played a fine game.

Frank JV 53

With being much better than before, the Frosh hoopers outplayed the JV's for the second time this week by a seven point margin. Bob Polichino, Jerry Welch, and Dave Metzker led the frosh in a 41-34 victory, and 10 points respectively. The JV's, making their move of high scoring center Art Wiltse, with an in- dented foot, were led by Don Aucoin and Peter Hohorst, both of whom play- ed their best games of the year. The Frosh hoopers, leading 14-7 when the lead, held a four point margin at the half, and never let the JV's in let up. Continuing their fine defensive play, the Frosh hoopers completely outclass their opponents, the MIT varsity squash team blacked impressive. First home game after the vacation will be Saturday the 14th against Bowdoin.