THE SHEEP HAVES FIVE L$\textsuperscript{2}

by James D. Robertson '56

For those who will be in the area over the vacation, the Easter is still running the "The Sheep Has Five Legs" starring that wonderful, many faces, Fernandell. This film gives Fernandell an excellent opportunity to display his abilities, as he plays not just one person, at a whole stack of exhibits. This is now being a famous Partition beauty: a down and out, but experimental wife-washer; an alien in a rideless position; a dispensable scum or dirt; a member and the author of an advice-to-the-levirate column.

The plot is really nothing to get excited about, but this was not exactly the object of the picture. The whole programme is highly entertaining. The limpid actions of Fernandell are tremendously amusing. You might say that he is real "loser." Marcel Marcell is a new bane in pantomime and in well worth seeing.

Last, but not least, is the UPA cartoon "The Rise of Dotted Lame." This is a Technicolor master. It could happen to you!!!

What's doing at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft

Domestic Travel in the Age of Jet Transports

Staring in 1959, United 4\textsuperscript{4} hours' flight time between Los Angeles and New York will be 4\textsuperscript{4} hours-between Chicago and New York, only 50 minutes. By picking the few extra order for jet transpor\textsuperscript{t} to be used in domestic operations, United Airlines has upheld its reputation as a pioneer in American air travel. Its new fleet of 30 Douglas DC-8 Clippers will be powered by the most powerful production aircraft engines in the world, J-57 turbojet, designed and developed by Pratt & Whitney Aircraft.

It is as a rule of thumb that jet transports are standard equipment along the air lanes of the world. The large majority of them will be powered by Pratt & Whitney Aircraft jet engines—an achievement of great national importance.

A jet-engine powerplant that develops 10,000 pounds of thrust—or more—involved some of the most complex problems of present-day engineering. A glance at the roster of today's J-57-powered military aircrafts is proud testimony to the success with which those problems were resolved by Pratt & Whitney Aircraft engineers.

Love is a Many Splendored Thing by Henry Fonda

Just recently China (Nationalist) can tell us from Red because we're not enroiled) voted the admission of Outer Mongolia into the United Nations in a fact which has absolutely nothing to do with the motion picture industry. The motion picture industry, however, makes it the business to have something to do with China, and periodically produces a pitch for our "support" across the seas. One of the most recent charity bids includes a coup of established people in the theatrical world.

Jennifer Jones takes on the role of an Eurasian doctor who wants to go back to Chungking in order to help her people. She is interested in the welfare of her people, and is not afraid of the big bad Communists. However, in the end, she gets back to the hill-behind-the-hospital (big make-out spot) and remembers that she told her that love is a many splendored thing. End.

Special note should be made of the performances of Miss Jones and Mr. Holden. It is seldom that we get music so beautifully focused. It is understood that they are not rising for the best performance of the year award. It is fortunate that one is a male and the other a female, because the decision would otherwise be extremely difficult. They both are loyal citizens, however, as they repudiate the Communist, God bless America.
