In accordance with the Institute's policy of progress, there was an announcement this summer of a new $7,000,000 student housing program, along with many important appointments including those of Chasen, special advisor to the President, and Dean of Students.

At the Alumni Day lectures on June 11, Dr. William announced plans for an extensive program which provides for the growth of the student union building and a new dormitory, plus wide spread remodeling of other dormitories. For the educational needs of the students.

In line with this policy of progress were many significant appointments. E. M. Forrester, former Dean of Students, will become special advisor to the President in the development of the new housing program. John D. Kelso, professor of engineering geology, has been appointed to succeed him as Dean of Students. The appointment of Dr. Julius A. Stratton, as such, he will administer the Institute's academic program, and will act as deputy to the President in the development of the new housing program. John D. Kelso, professor of engineering geology, has been appointed to succeed him as Dean of Students. The appointment of Dr. Julius A. Stratton, as such, he will administer the Institute's academic program, and will act as deputy to the President in the development of the new housing program.

The Foreign Area Training Fellowship Program, established by the Ford Foundation to administer the Institute's academic program, and will act as deputy to the President in the development of the new housing program.

The Foundation is also offering for the second year a fellowship to support social science training related to international relations, and who wish to undertake training in another social science or in the history, culture and current problems of one or more of the above nations. Fellowships are also open to persons under 40 years of age who are now studying or teaching international relations and who wish to undertake training in another social science or in the history, culture and current problems of one or more of the above nations. Fellowships are also open to persons under 40 years of age who are now studying or teaching international relations and who wish to undertake training in another social science or in the history, culture and current problems of one or more of the above nations.

Applications must be filed by December 1st. The Foreign Area Training Fellowship Program is open to persons under 40 years of age who are now studying or teaching international relations and who wish to undertake training in another social science or in the history, culture and current problems of one or more of the above nations.

The Foundation is also offering for the second year a fellowship to support social science training related to international relations, and who wish to undertake training in another social science or in the history, culture and current problems of one or more of the above nations.

Applications must be filed by December 1st. The Foreign Area Training Fellowship Program is open to persons under 40 years of age who are now studying or teaching international relations and who wish to undertake training in another social science or in the history, culture and current problems of one or more of the above nations.

The Foundation is also offering for the second year a fellowship to support social science training related to international relations, and who wish to undertake training in another social science or in the history, culture and current problems of one or more of the above nations.

Applications must be filed by December 1st. The Foreign Area Training Fellowship Program is open to persons under 40 years of age who are now studying or teaching international relations and who wish to undertake training in another social science or in the history, culture and current problems of one or more of the above nations.