"God, Dad," sympathized the math man, "keep cool. I'll think of something. You can count on it."

So the prof rickshawed home and took a bath. Soon he was heard to shout, "Eureka!" (in Chinese, of course). He had solved the problem by inventing the abacus.

Next day he brought in a counting gizmo made of bamboo and cranberries. With this mechanical brain, Wun was able to introduce the time-payment plan, because the credit department was able to extend the time-payment plan, because one day a patron and Wun did this bit across the mahogany:

"I have a yen for two cold ones to go," said the customer. "Sorry, friend. we don't accept Japanese currency," Wun lunged. "I'll suggest," came the reply, "got a suggestion?"

Many moons ago ... around 600 B. C. ... there was a barkeep named Wun in a little bistro off Times Square in Shanghái. Now this character's cashbox was loaded with loot, as Wun served up the greatest brew that side of the Yangtze. So you can see that's how Wun got a charge out the change. I don't dig math. A... A abacus if you want to. But when it comes to beer, figure in belonged to a calculus on Budweiser. It's the best draught beer any side of the Yangtze. You can count on it.

MORAL: When it comes to mathematics, you can count on an abacus if you want to. But when it comes to beer, figure out the change. I don't dig math.
