Fencers Top Trinity With 17-10 Margin in Season's Opener

The MIT fencing team opened their season with a 17-10 victory over Trinity College at New Haven, Conn., Saturday. This was the first meet of the year for both teams. MIT's next contest will be with the University of Connecticut.

Individual competition in each weapon also ended with MIT ahead as they captured 6-3 victories in foil and epee, and a 5-4 win in the saber. This was the first meet of the season for both teams.

The insurance is designed to assist financially any student who suffers any injury that the Student Health Insurance plans do not cover. For this reason the policy covers only those accidents which cost an individual more than one thousand dollars in medical expenses. The new policy, in comparison with the Student Health Insurance or a similar plan, should prevent any student from having to discontinue his education due to the financial expense of athletic injuries.

The MIT Athletic Association's new insurance policy went into effect on July 1 and has been accepted by the majority of the 25 MIT oarsmen who expect to row during the spring.

Precautions have been taken in order to keep the cage season in good shape. This includes travel in private cars under Democratic auspices while participating in intercollegiate and intramural contests and practices providing the injury occurs to a student on the MIT athletic field. The policy also covers our contestants while participating in intercollegiate sports away from MIT, as well as all our participants traveling in and out of the community. This includes travel in private cars under the sponsorship of a coach.
