Dr. Killian Honored
In Osage Indian Rite
As Tulsa Grads Meet

The President of The Massachusetts Institute of Technology is now on a tour of the Osage Tribe. President Killian's adoption was the highlight of the MIT Alumni Regional Conference in Tulsa, Oklahoma on February second. An Osage chief presented President Killian with an elaborate headdress and an Indian blanket. The Osages are very careful in the selection of "honor-ary members" and it is a distinct honor to be received into such an important tribe in Oklahoma.

Feb. 2 was declared MIT Day in Oklahoma and about 1200 people, including students from high schools and colleges in the area attended the conference.

Two Alumni were given citations for their service to MIT. William Holloway of the class of '25, who has been in food control work in Oklahoma for 40 years, was cited for his meritorious service. W. J. Sherry of the class of '21 was made "Master-MIT of Oklahoma", and was given an honorary certificate for service to MIT.

Delta Upsilon, IFC
Aid Foster Children

For over four years members of Delta Upsilon Fraternity have been quietly paying $1 each, every month to support an "adopted" son, Josef Millicker, who lives in a DP camp in Weimar, Germany.

The men send a total of $180 a year through the Foster Parent Plan, Inc. in New York City. The money goes for food and clothing and Josef receives a cash grant each month. From letters received from Josef, the DU's have learned that he is in the seventh grade. He lives with another brother, who expects 3 other children on $20 per month relief.

The Inter-Fraternity Conference helps support an adopted child in the same manner. The IFC is the proud father to Jean Marc Corlouer of France. A blue-eyed, blond boy, Jean has known only poverty his whole life, because his father, whose mind was shattered during the war, cannot work to support his family.

Foster Parents Plan which has aided more than 90,000 children since its founding in 1937, is now operating in 15 counties. A current certificate for service to MIT.

Dr. Robert Graves, noted English poet, novelist and critic, will make the only Boston appearance of his current trip to the United States at MIT on Friday evening, February 8. Mr. Graves' lecture at Kresge Auditorium, beginning at 8:30 p.m., will include readings of his own poetry and prose followed by critical commentary.

The 61-year-old poet, who last visited this country in 1957, is author of such well-known historical novels as "I, Claudius," "Claudius the God," and "Gallows Bastards." His non-fiction includes scholarly works on literature and religion as well as an unorthodox retelling of "The Greek Myths, in which Mr. Graves attempted the conclusions of modern anthropo- logy and archaeology. One of his recent critical works, "The Crowning Privilege," includes his widely-discussed attack on Yeats, Pound, Eliot, Auden and Dylan Thomas.

Mr. Graves was born in Wimble- don, England, served as captain in the Royal Welsh Fusiliers during World War I, and began his career as a professor of English literature at Cairo University in 1920. He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Anthro- pological Institute and has received many distinguished literary prizes for his poetry and novels.

During his present stay in this country he will appear at Mr. Balikes, MIT, the Sphinx Poetry Center in New York, and the Library of Congress before returning to his home in Majorca, Spain.

Mr. Graves' appearance in Cam- bridge is sponsored by the MIT Drama- toup Celebrity Series. Tickets at $5.00 for reserved seats, $1.50 for un- reserved seats are available at Kress- e Auditorium and the Mandel Bookstore in Harvard Square.
