Leader of an exploration

Owen Williams led a team of ressearch and development specialists at Bell Telephone Laboratories. He is one of many former MIT students who have made important contributions to the field of electronics and communications.

Owen Williams has a Bachelor of Arts degree in electrical engineering from MIT, as well as a Master of Science degree in electrical engineering from the University of Michigan.

In 1954, Owen was promoted to supervise the team of engineers working on the development of the transcontinental cabled system. His team was responsible for the design and implementation of the system, which consisted of over 10,000 miles of underwater cables.

Owen retired from Bell Telephone Laboratories in 1982 and now resides in Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Many young men like Owen Williams are finding interesting and rewarding careers in the Bell System — at Bell Telephone Laboratories, in Bell Telephone Companies, Western Electric and Sanders Corporation. Your placement officer can give you more information about career opportunities in all Bell System companies.