The organization, Dean Pietro Bolzoni of the Department of Architecture, replied, "There is nothing definite yet, but the Institute has several ideas in the pre-planning stages," said Dean Bolzoni.

"Urban Renewal Laws"

For example, the "Urban Renewal" laws may help solve the problem. These laws state, in effect, that valuable central-city real estate property now occupied by slums or condemned buildings may be sold at a reduction in price below the current market value as an inducement for industry or improved housing to take hold. The financial loss to the owner would be paid by the Federal and City governments in such a case. Since much of the land behind MIT along Vassar Street falls within these requirements it may be possible to buy and build on it, Dean Bolzoni said.

Also, it may be possible to build on the land now occupied by the South House and Howard Johnson’s restaurant on Memorial Drive near Westgate West, since the land is owned by MIT and the leases on those buildings expire on Jan. 31, 1961, says Assistant Treasurer P. A. Stoddard. However, all plans for future housing are indefinite at this point, said Mr. Stoddard.

R.W. Hagopian Wins Traffic Fine Appeal; Pleads His Own Case

Robert W. Hagopian ’58, accused of speeding, took his case to Superior Court and won a temp trial last week.

Hagopian, a Course VIII senior from Westham, handled his own defense. To the arresting officer’s testimony that he had seen Hagopian out to the left of a row of stopped cars at an excessive speed, Hagopian answered that the arresting officer, speaking on Sanforized paper. But Hagopian said the “190SL” benz 190SL, which he was driving, is too low to be visible.

June 15, and return from Paris on July 19.

Because this is an off-season period for the airlines, the share of expenses per passenger will be only $280 for the round trip.

Already more than 200 people have indicated interest. In the fights by requesting information and application papers from the manager of the group, Ira Aronoff. Alhough his name is not known in the office, he might be led to believe that the car’s speed was excessive.

The alleged violation took place in Newton, July 23, Hagopian pleaded not guilty in Third District Court, August 15, and was found guilty in the same court, August 25, and fined $25— at which time he appealed to Superior Court.

Reacting to a tremendous response from the transferred contingent of the MIT community, the "MIT Charter Flight to Europe" organization has announced a second, shorter trip.

The dates and expenses for this flight are designed to fit the vacation period and budget of the would-be travelers. Allowed five weeks in Europe, it will leave New York on June 15, and return from Paris on July 19.
