S.A. Charter Flight Seen Possibility If Enough Desire One

Because of the tremendous interest in international travel demonstrated by the group of 200 inquiring about the Charter Flight to Europe, that organization is presently polling the MIT community to determine the demand for a charter flight to South America.

Although the dates and destinations for the flight are not yet fixed, a sample quotation for the per person expense on a round trip from Boston to Guayaquil, June to September of 1958, is $200.00. Qualifications for joining the flight will be the same as those for the flights to Europe.

All students, faculty, and staff who might be interested are urged to contact Stewart R. Mott, 36 Alice St., Waltham, Mass., before the holidays. It will be possible to organize the flight only if there are at least fifty persons expressing their intentions to visit South America next summer.
