Mr. Wright cited the automobile as a feature which is hastening the decay of cities. He called repeatedly to him technical questions, and WTBS from MIT and Harvard were asking him technical questions, and WTBS

He continued, "Education is now just the trampling of the herd. We must return to the elemental spirit of truth. I suggest you all get out of school and work on a farm or do bricklaying for a year or so."

When questioned about himself and his ideas, Mr. Wright said, "I hope for a revolution for science. All I can say about an engineer will be used by the architect."
