The reaction to the pilot text of the new high school physics course, designed by the Physical Science Study Committee, has been outstanding. The book was prepared by a group of high school teachers who have been putting it together. The text has been praised by many experts, especially those familiar with the subject matter. The book is particularly well-organized, with clear, concise, and interesting language. It is also richly illustrated with diagrams and photographs. The book is intended for use in high school physics classes, and it is hoped that it will help to improve the understanding of the underlying concepts in the subject. The book is available for purchase at many bookstores, and it is expected to be widely used in high schools across the country.
