Promoted from assistant to associate professor are Dr. Alfred Chandley in History, and Dr. William R. Court in modern languages.

Promoted from instructor to assistant professor are Dr. Charles Gray and Dr. Mr. Charles Conclusion. In addition, Mr. Nicholas has been put in charge of the freshman humanities program.

MIT's newest department, nuclear engineering, has assumed two promotions. Dr. Theodore Thompson, associate professor and dean of the MIT, the new nuclear reactor, has been promoted to full professor. Dr. Michelle Clark will move up to an associate professorship.

In the chemical engineering department, Dr. Robert E. Bell, director of the School of Chemical Engineering Practice, has been promoted to associate professor.

Six faculty promotions in the Department of Economics and Science were announced. Raised from the rank of associate to full professor are Dr. E. Cary Brown, of economics; Dr. Robert B. Solow, of sociology; and Dr. Joel B. Sohlsjoel, of public opinion and propaganda. Dr. Solow is at present on leave at the University Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences.

Promoted from the rank of instructor to assistant professor are Dr. Albert K. Ando, Ralph C. James, and Beth P. Tillman.

Six promotions have been made in the Physics Department. Dr. Francis L. Friedman, a member of the Physical Science Study Committee, has been raised from associate to full professor. Dr. David H. Finon, an expert in high energy physics and nuclear fusion, has received a similar appointment.

Two assistant professors of physics, Dr. David O. Caldwell and Dr. John G. King, have been promoted in the rank of associate professor.

Two instructors, Dr. Irvin A. Press and Dr. Rolf F. Schumacher, have been promoted to assistant professor.
