The MIT Debating Team sent two units to the 13th Annual Invitational Debate Tournament at the University of Vermont two weekends ago. Two coaches, Arthur Olsen and Peter O'Hara, accompanied the team.

The Varsity Unit was composed of Wayne Hayden and Richard Smith for the affirmative and Ray Wilkins and Dan Laufer for the negative. The affirmative side won three and lost two; the negative had two wins and three losses.

The Varsity with their 14th out of 43 schools, while the Novice Team tied for 18th place out of the 37 schools.

The subject of the debate was the standard topic of the year: Resolved: that we should prohibit the further development of nuclear weapons by international agreement.
