Flying Club Reinstates President

At a business meeting of the Tech Flying Club on October 16th, President Robert P. Hudock, '60, submitted his resignation, which was later accepted. President Hudock stated that the club's financial situation was not adequate, and he had originally resigned in the face of charges made by Charles Livington, '60, President of the rival Aero-Tech Flying Club.

Last week Livington had charged that the TFC pilots were not insured. In addition, Livington had claimed that the club had misrepresented itself to student groups, and that President Hudock was not adequately trained to fly. All TFC members spontaneously refused to accept his resignation and gave him a unanimous vote of confidence.

After the vote, Hudock continued club operations and its insurance coverage. He explained that insurance on club planes included a million dollar liability coverage, and if the club had misrepresented itself, he would not serve if there were any doubts as to his integrity and intentions, and, if he did not have the entire support of the club, he would resign. All TFC members spontaneously refused to accept his resignation and gave him a unanimous vote of confidence.

Institute Lawyers to Meet

Today Institute lawyers will meet to decide whether Hudock's club and its rival, the Aero-Tech Flying Club, are sufficiently insured for injuries. If either of the clubs is not adequately insured, the more basic problem — whether the Institute is liable to students injured in insufficiently insured Institute activities — will be examined. "Until all facts are presented at this meeting," said Tom Farquhar, '60, Activities Council President, "no action will be taken against either club."

Do You Think for Yourself?

(BLAST OFF ON THESE QUESTIONS AND SEE IF YOU GO INTO ORBIT!)

If you see a brilliant future for you... when a man insists on doing what he can do best, regardless of where he finds himself, he's (A) a valuable member of the community? (B) an independent spirit? (C) apt to be pretty silly?

If you see a smoking man about to jump into a river, would you (A) assist him? (B) warn him? (C) merely say it was a timely light saving? (B) merely says it was a timely light saving? (A) an argument for day-to-day action? (B) a timely blow against planned obsolescence? (C) a new way of saying that when you use fore-cocarc, would you pick one (A) that (A) says it has a new filter? (B) merely says it has a new filter? (C) does the best filtering job for the finest taste?

When you think for yourself... you depend on judgment, not chance, in your choice of cigarettes. That is why men and women who think for themselves usually smoke Viceroy. They know only Viceroy has a thinking man's filter—the most advanced filter design of them all. And only Viceroy has a smoking man's taste. *If you have checked (C) in three out of four questions... you think for yourself!"
