Dormitory Council Constitution Approved
Will Help Dormcom "Believe In Itself"

The Dormcom can now be spoken of in house above a whisper. Last Thursday at the Inncom meeting the Dormcom recognized as the sole representative of the dormitories and its constitution was accepted unanimously.

A part of the next step introduced to recognize the Dormcom and to establish it as a formally independent sub-committee of Inncom.

The Dormcom will have its first meeting at 8 o'clock tonight. The meeting will be held in the Hayden Library Lounge at 8:00 P.M.

SCEP Receives Vote of Confidence

The Student Committee on Educational Policy received a vote of confidence from the Inncom last Thursday. The question under debate was whether to appoint a member of the SCEP to the Inncom.

The vote was taken recently on his Russian studies. Leslie was speaking on "A European Tour 1940-1950." The talk will include a commentary on European art, with the speaker at a lecture presented by the Technology Matrons.

The Inncom members were pleased with the talk, which was held in the Hayden Library Lounge at 8:00 P.M.

APC Pool Party

The APC pool party is scheduled for this Saturday night. Included on the agenda will be an open session, followed by a dance.

Field Day Rules Stressing Safety; Coed Tug-of-War Is Possibility

The official rules for Field Day have been cleared through the Dean's Office and submitted to the freshman and sophomore classes. They remain essentially as previously reported, with some changes.

The order of events has been set as Float Race, Tug-of-War, "X" event, and golve fight. The "X" event has been substituted for the totem pole race, which was initiated last year but considered too dangerous.

The course itself is not to be driven by any any one, but solely by freshman and sophomores labor. It must be equipped with swimming池es and the crew must be equipped with swimming certificates. In addition, the boot is to carry a rope, a class mous or crog, and a gun shot, if needed, to go out of hand. Each class must have its own pool for Field Day.

According to the official rules, the Field Day is designed to "promote organization and teamwork in the Freshman and Sophomore classes;" to "be a welcome diversion... providing a small degree of relaxation from academic endevors;" and to "encourage organized action by the Freshmen, giving their newly elected leaders a chance to prove themselves.

This is further stated that good taste and sportsmanship are to govern.
