Argentinians Arrive Soon

Russian Students Here

A distinguished group of visiting students is now on campus and another is scheduled to arrive next week. Interior a contingent of twelve Russian students and three interpreters arrived for a visit with students of all professions.

At the time this issue of The Tech went to press little was known about plans of the visitor, T. Fafin. Vice President and rector of the institute, the visit of the students is expected entirely upon what the students desire to see. It is known one of the students, who range in age from 25 to 35, is an engineer. Little else is known about their educational background, however.

The Russians arrived yesterday after tern after and a short tour of the structures were given at a formal recreation held in the Hayden Library lobby. The reception was attended by Boar Key members, deans, and members of the foreign language and humanities departments. Today they are expected to spell to visit the parts of the Institute which are of interest to them.

The Russians will be followed by the Institute a group of Argentinian students who will be on campus at least one day during their five day stay in Boston the week of November 9-15. No other information has been released about this group, according to Bill Strum, who is making the arrangements for their visit.

Two representatives from NSA will speak to the Institute Committee at the meeting this Thursday. The representatives include Harold Dahmen, a former national NSA president, and I. Itilberg, who was Campus Intercultural Administration last year.

These delegates are coming as an invitation to the NSA by the Institute Committee. They purpose here will be to present the advantages of the continued affiliation of MIT with the NSA.

The question of disaffiliation or "drastic corrective action" came up when the MIT delegation to the NSA-sponsored National Student Congress presented its factual report to the Institute Committee last month. The report stated that too much of the NSA’s time is exalted by matters not pertinent to "students in their role as students." This is supposed to be the purpose of the NSA and it is the only purpose that the Institute Committee will accept as reason for participating in future NSA affiliation.

The alternative to disaffiliation, that of "drastic corrective action," is in the form of recommendations: an establishment of a MIT NSA Committee under the Institute Committee; more funds from the Finance Board; and a familiarization of MIT with the NSA.

One of the main objections of the Institute Committee to the NSA is that the average student knows little or nothing about the functions, or even the existence of the NSA. At its previous meeting the Institute Committee felt that if the NSA can make itself known to the average student, then it can develop its potential to the fullest.

Fiji, Dels Capture Playoff Victories

Delta Tau Delta and Phi Gamma Delta grabbed playoff victories Sunday to complete the slate of eight teams eligible to begin competition for the intramural football championship next weekend.

The Dels took the League I title with a 13-0 win over Delta Upsilon, which had tied for the lead with a 3-3-3 victor Saturday in a make-up contest with Grad House. The Fijus edged Phi Delta Theta, 7-6, for the League II crown.

In the only other game which decided a league championship, Lambda Chi Alpha downed Sigma Alpha Epsilon and East Campus will meet Senior House I Wednesday to complete the full slate of eight teams scheduled to begin competition for the intramural football championships next weekend.

Junior Chuck Gamble, '62, completed the Dels' winning drive in the third quarter and spotted John Crissman, '61, in the final period. Dave Powell,

The Tech's November 3, 1959 edition includes a photo of the queen and her entourage, along with various game results and news items. The issue also features a page on Russian students visiting MIT, a story on the disaffiliation debate with the National Student Association, and information about Future Tech Queen elections.
