Although running against a much stronger field, the varsity cross country team improved its finish by a place over the previous year at the New England Cross Country Championships on Monday, November 9 at Franklin Park. The Harriers were 12th among the 16 teams participating, tops among Rhode Island, Boston University, University of Connecticut, Brandeis, and The College. Running in 10 degree weather with three inches of snow on the ground, the Harriers managed to finish eleventh, with a total of twenty schools represented.
