As a college sophomore, you're nearing the mid-point. Halfway through college—halfway through Army ROTC. Now you face a major decision: Are the gold bars of a commissioned officer worth two more years of study?

1. Traditional responsibilities. To meet the command responsibilities of an Army officer, you apply the leadership principles learned during advanced ROTC training. Your executive potential grows as you gather leadership experience.

2. Traditional rewards. In every organization, greater responsibilities mean greater rewards. Thus the traditional responsibilities and prestige of an Army officer are matched by traditional rewards.

Rifle Squad Annexes 3 Matches, Pistolmen Split on Southern Trip

The Beaver sharpshooters—rifle and pistol squads—completed successful mid-term trips over mid-term vacations. The riflemen won three out of five matches on a southern trip; the pistol marksmen split four contests.

The Annapolis rifle team skidded to a victory over the Engineers on February 1. The next four days proved more successful—the Cardinal and Gray triumphed over Maryland, were vanquished by St. John, slaughtered the New York Maritime Academy, and closed with a victory over the Merchant Marine Academy.

Top scores for MIT were recorded by Captain Bill Leffler, '61, (at Merchant Marine) and Dan Schwartz, '60, (at Maryland). Both hit 290 out of a possible 300 points. One of the brightest stars was a sophomore, Dave Smith, who showed great promise with consistently fine shooting.

The pistol squad was vanquished at Annapolis, on February 1, but the following day trounced Villanova. On the 3rd the West Point pistol team set an all-time Army record while running over the Beavers. In the final match the Engineers scored their biggest total of the trip and easily triumphed over the Merchant Marine Academy.

Matmen, Cagers In Saturday Twin-Bill

Fans will be treated to a unique doubleheader Saturday night when the Cardinal and Gray wrestlers tangle with Coast Guard preceding the Beaver-Williams basketball game at Rockefeller Cage.

The grapplers, who have posted a 4-1 record in the first half of the season, will be out to avenge last year's loss to the Bulldogs. The match is scheduled for 6 P.M.

Four varsity matmen—captain Don Weaver, '60, Andrew Balkoff, '61, Tore Latham, '61, and John Sullivan, '60, will be out to strengthen their unbeaten strings.

The cage contest is slated for 8:15 P.M.

Ski Team Captures Conference Opener

It was a good trip, it was a good season. The Tufts College ski team eked out a victory over the Engineers on February 1. The next four days proved more successful—the Cardinal and Gray triumphed over Maryland, were vanquished by St. John, slaughtered the New York Maritime Academy, and closed with a victory over the Merchant Marine Academy.

Ski Team Captures Conference Opener

Sparked by Roberto Peccei, '62, the Beaver ski team opened defense of its New England inter-collegiate Ski Conference championship with two victories during mid-term. Peccei, who placed third in the Brown Invitational giant slalom on Saturday, January 30, came back to win the New England College giant slalom Sunday.

The team, which has lost the services of two top men, has six meets remaining on its schedule. The squad will compete in the Tufts College giant slalom Saturday.

As a college sophomore, you're nearing the mid-point. Halfway through college—halfway through Army ROTC. Now you face a major decision: Are the gold bars of a Second Lieutenant worth two additional years of study in advanced ROTC?

That question is yours to answer now—before you register for your junior year. As you explore the facts, carefully weigh the traditional responsibilities and rewards of serving as an Army officer...

1. Traditional responsibilities. To meet the command responsibilities of an Army officer, you apply the leadership principles learned during advanced ROTC training. Your executive potential grows as you gather leadership experience. That's why employers often prefer men who served as commissioned officers. These men already have proven their capacity to shoulder executive responsibilities.

2. Traditional rewards. In every organization, greater responsibilities mean greater rewards. Thus the traditional responsibilities and prestige of an Army officer are matched by material advantages. For example, if you plan to marry soon after graduation—an officer's salary can be a distinct advantage. A married Second Lieutenant earns a minimum of $160.00 per month—plus substantial fringe benefits.

Need more information? Check with the Professor of Military Science and Tactics at your college or university. He'll be glad to discuss your decision with you.

*Last year, 14,436 sophomores answered "yes" to this question—and entered advanced Army ROTC.
