Tech Show Director
Quits; Now To Make Musical Revue

A dispute over policy has ended with the resignation of Tom Bostick as Director and script writer of Tech Show '60. Harold Roeder is the new Director. The dispute was centered over whether or not this year's show should be a musical revue or a musical comedy. In the resolving of the dispute, which led to Bostick's resignation, it was decided that the show would be a light revue. Bostick, according to Roeder, definitely was not fired and was in no way to blame. Roeder made a definite point of the fact that it was a dispute over policy alone, and was not a personal dispute. Bostick was not available for comment on the situation. Up until Tech Show '61, all the shows had been revue type shows, and only the last four have been musical comedies, Roeder pointed out.

Both Roeder and Professor Bill Greeno, faculty advisor for Tech Show '60, stated that the show is in pretty good shape. Greeno told a Tech reporter the show is being straightened out now, while Roeder said that the show at present is in very good shape. He stated that at present musical acts are being rehearsed both rebar and that the chorus is one of the best he has ever seen for a Tech Show. Roeder said that success in policy may arise in any organization, but it is unfortunate that this one came up so late. He was quick to add, however, that this would not affect the quality of the show.

Vance Packer Speaks Today
Topic Is The Status Seekers

Vance Packer, author of The Hidden Persuaders and The Status Seekers, will appear in Kresge Auditorium, at 7:30 P.M. today, under the auspices of the Business Man and General Club. The lecture will be free.

Vance Packard's second book which reached the best-seller list was The Status Seekers. This describes a society which is becoming more and more dividend. Certain titles are cited as the accepted prerequisite to advancement in this life. These distinguishing marks are the status symbols of modern society. The struggle to acquire these symbols through the title of Vance Packard's book as well as the title for the lecture. The lecture will be free.

DATE FOR AN 'Egbert' SING-SET

Debate Team Falls In Meet

Twenty-nine schools participated in the MIT Debate Society meeting, 91 Annual Invitational Debate Tournament, held at 9:30 A.M. and 11:30 A.M. on Friday and Saturday. This was the first tournament in which the team from Baker House was defeated. Baker House will be given the second prize in the junior division, according to the rules of the tournament. The agreement of the senior division was decided in the last minutes of the tournament. The top two teams, all with a 9-3 record, were Harvard, Bowdoin, and Rochester, and they are indicated by first round results. The lowest divisions in the junior division were defeated.

Debate Team President

Dean P. F. Fussett has been chosen by the Baton Society as the Master of Ceremonies for this year's All Tech Sing, which will be held Thursday, March 12, in Kresge, beginning at 8:30 P.M. Fussett will introduce the choral groups as well as the general conviviality of the show. All Tech Sing, sponsored by the Baton Society as an incentive to informal singing, has its beginning in the Student Senate. The show has grown in popularity and is one of the top social events of the year. Living groups will receive their applications this week Barthall stated. A five dollar fee is required with the application which is due March 4. This is in order to prepare for the show.

All entertainment for the show must be of a singing nature, although instrumental accompaniment is allowed. Singing will be in either a "serious" or a "light" vein, and a first and second prize will be awarded in each group. The three judges for the competition will not be announced until the night of the show.

Egbert" Is the Given

In addition to prizes in the two groups, other awards will be made. The "Egbert" Award will go to the group that best adheres to the best-novelties act. Last year's Egbert prize went to the Associated Students Women Students and consisted of a stuffed beaver with a red nose. The group traditionally held a secret and has, in past years consisted of such things as a pair of antlers, an antique lamp, and a pair of black rabbits. The grand award of the evening, a cup, will go to the group judged, to say, "Best in Show." The winner of this cup will be chosen from the winners of the serious and musical revue and the winners of the Egbert award. Last year's winner of the cup was Sigma Phi Epilous.

Grosa Egbert Contest

A special feature of the All Tech Sing will be the "Grosa Egbert" contest which has been held in past years. The person who comes closest to guessing the substance of the prize will win a refund of his admission fee. A guess of a stuffed beaver (lacking the red tail) was close enough to win last year. Guesses can be made at the ticket booth or in the ballroom.

The date of Ruth Benedict's re- tirement was erroneously given in last is- sue. Ruth Benedict will give her recital in Kresge, Febru- ary 19, at 8:00 P.M.

Levine Enters UAP Race

Jaffe Welcomes Rival

The UAP contest became more than a white ball election as Richard C. Levine, '60, announced his candidacy this weekend. Levine, a Course VIII junior and chairman of the Committee on the Production of "The Prosecutor," a play written and produced by Mr. E. V. Wilson, is the first non-law student to announce for the UAP nomination this year.

"I am announcing my candidacy with a motivation which is two parts public service and one part personal gain," he explained. "I have no illusions about what I can do, and my plans lie in implementing the desirable recomendations of the '39-40 campaign and in those with inadequate housing; a new, palatable, and realistic plan for common mental support of SAE; and increased communication between the undergraduate and student groups. My experience over the past year has shown me the reainsurable and important things to do, and I do not consider myself a student that can be written off. I don't believe that MIT students can be told what to do. I plan to be a good follower, and pledge to find good people and assist them. I hope to keep the faith of this group and urge me to do the job properly. I will try to speak to all interested students and are not interested in my plans. I also include other qualified students and have been meeting with several groups on related matters. I am in the process of personally visiting as many students as possible in order to obtain a variety of opinions. This will enable me to work with the students in a more comprehensive platform which I will submit for publication in a forth- coming issue of The Tech."
