First Try A Success

Senior House Begins Buffets

Senior House, traditionally one of the more active dining groups on campus, has begun what is hoped by Ken Kotovsky, Jr., House President, to be a Senior House institution in the form of bi-weekly buffet suppers held in the house.

The dinners, the first of which was held Sunday, are scheduled to be held every other week, beginning after vacation. At one dollar a head, over 65% of the house residents showed up for all they could eat of ham, roast beef, and potato salad.

Kotovsky, who along with Al Womack, Sr., organized the dinners, stated, "The dinners not only give people from different parts of the House a chance to eat and talk together hurriedly, but also provide a good dinner. We hope to make these dinners a place where students can invite faculty and administration members to eat and talk informally with them." Present at Sunday night's dinner were Dean and Mrs. John T. Rule.

tech engineering news

NUCLEAR REACTORS — how they work and why.
MAN IN SPACE — the break-off effect.
SEMICONDUCTORS.
SCULPTURE IN POLYSTYRENE.
WHY IS ENGINEERING BECOMING UNPOPULAR?
ROLLING FRICTION — the latest theory . . .
and much, much more.

Perhaps you have not been among the readers of TEN lately — if not, this issue is well worth your quarter.

On Sale Buildings 2 and 10
Thursday and Thursday

Remember our Subscription Offer!