The Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, announces Exhibitions of Photography, held in conjunction with the program of exhibitions, lectures, and special events. New exhibitions, such as "Photography at Mid-Century" (through April 30), "Ships and Sailing" (a print collection running through the end of April), and assorted lectures, gallery talks, and events reflect the features of "Art Treasures of Thailand" and "The Passion" according to Martin Schongasser.

Photography at Mid-Century is an exhibition of the George Eastman House of Rochester. New York, celebrating the 16th anniversary of its opening as a museum of visual expression and interpretation, and represents what 50 photographers of the 1950's themselves consider their best work. Through this collection, viewers will be exposed to the earliest known photographers as well as those established internationally.

Dramashop Schedules
Bernard Shaw Plays

"Androcles and the Lion," Georgian folk drama of the early Christian persecution, in Rome, is to be presented by Dramashop at the Little Theatre, Kresge Auditorium, opening Saturday, April 26 at 8:30 p.m. and continuing through Saturday, April 28. Another of Shaw's plays, "Great Catherine," will also be presented as part of the Centennial celebration. The two plays will be directed by Joseph D. Everingham, with costumes designed and executed by Mrs. Helen Bottomly who recently designed the costumes for the March and April of MIT Centennial celebration.

APRO Bulletin: BC To Host Goldwater

On May 2 at 8 p.m. the Boston College Law School Forum will present Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who will speak on the topic, "The New Frontier Is the Same Old Deal." The Forum will be held in the Roberts Centre on the Boston College campus in Chestnut Hill and will be open to the public, although entry will be obtained at the door or before May 2 at the Law School. Admission is $1 per person, reserved seats $3.

Senator Goldwater, leader of the conservative wing of the Republican party, is a critic of the present foreign policy and philosophy. He is also the author of the best-selling "Conscience of a Conservative." This is a good opportunity of attacking the senator in a question and answer period after his address.

Also at Boston College, as part of the 25th anniversary of the School of Social Work, the Rev. John P. Rock, assistant professor of philosophy at Boston College, will deliver a lecture on April 27. He will speak on "Skepticism and the Social Ethic." The lecture, which will be free, is open to the public.

BU Field Day
For those who would rather spend the day out of doors, Boston University will hold its Field Day on Saturday, April 22. While Field Day will include a number of events, it is the annual football game, which will be free, is open to the public."
