New Hampshire, Bowdoin Defeat Hockey Team

By Tom Sheahan '63

After an suspenseful start with two victories, MIT's hockey team emerged from the last weekend game, a 4-0 win over Bowdoin. The game was a battle of goaltenders, with Boston University's Tim O'Brien and MIT's Tim Nichols facing off.

The game opened with a goal by Nichols, making it 1-0 for MIT. Bowdoin quickly tied it back with a goal by Stowell. The second period saw Nichols score again, making it 2-1 for MIT. Bowdoin responded with a goal by Nichols, tying the game back up.

The third period saw Bowdoin take the lead with a goal by Nichols, scoring his third goal of the game and making it 3-2 for Bowdoin. MIT responded with a goal by Nichols, bringing the score back to 3-3.

Bowdoin would go on to win the game 4-3, with a goal by Nichols in the final seconds of the game. The game was a hard-fought battle between two skilled teams, with Nichols' performance in goal being a key factor in the victory.

SALUTE: STEVE BANKS

Because of Steve Banks, who just two years ago was an undergraduate engineering student, the Bell Telephone System is closer to wiping out the noise (or "static") that sometimes interferes with telephone conversations. On one of his first assignments, Steve examined the noise levels that had "leaked" into telephone circuits in Colorado. His findings shed light on the source of the noise, and on the important methods of measuring it.
