Coop Seeks Three Times Its Present Selling Space

By Tom Manly
(Last of Three Parts)

If the presently proposed Technology Store is carried out, this branch of the Harvard Co-operative Society could well become one of the larger college co-operatives in the country. Moreover, the store would be able to offer the MIT community not only a wider selection of goods, which are presently available, but also many different lines of merchandise.

Last year the total sales of the Technology Store amounted to $1,390,927.23. Add to this the $39,425 earned in the barbershop, and the grand total approaches $1,425 earned in the barbershop, $3,000,000 worth of merchandise.

The MIT community not only a wide selection of goods, which are presently available, but also many different lines of merchandise.
