

Class Presidential Candidates Report Statements

LSC Presents Peace Corps Representative Dr. Rogers B. Finch

A representative of the Peace Corps, Dr. Rogers B. Finch, will be sponsored by the MIT Lecture Series Committee in a lecture concerning participation in the Peace Corps. The lecture will be in the Hayden Library Lounge March 12 at 5:15 p.m.

Students interested in meeting with Dr. Finch during the day should make arrangements through Richard McDowell, Assistant to the Dean of Students.

An alumnus of MIT and former Assistant Professor of Textile Technology from 1946 to 1953, Dr. Finch is Chief of the Division of University Relations of the Peace Corps.

He is responsible for Peace Corps projects administered by universities

Three statements have been received this week from candidates for class president. The Tech will print the statements of all presidential candidates received before 7 p.m. Monday.

Class of '63

Statements from Elliot Bird and Bob Vernon appeared in the last issue of The Tech.

Class of '64

Kim Sloat

When elected to the Junior Prom Committee, I stated that I would approach the job with an open mind, learning from tradition, but not being bound by it. I reaffirm this now in relation to the Class Presidency.

In particular, as chairman of the Junior Prom Committee, I would seek to inject vitality into a weekend that has become stereotyped through precedent. While JP has been good in the past, I believe that it can be still better in the future.

I would also approach the other aspects of the President's job — Incomm, general representative of the class — with the same attitude — to be guided but not overwhelmed by precedent.

Statements from Ron Gilman,

Charles Elias and "Duke" Miller appeared last week in The Tech.

Class of '65

Al Tervalon

As President of the Class of 1965, I will be willing to devote the time that the office requires. I am confident that my desire and interest in the office will enable me to fulfill my responsibility to the class.

I do not think it wise to make any promise other than to pledge my loyalty, time, and willingness to listen to any and all ideas pertinent to the administration of the office entrusted to me.

Marshall Fisher

The president of our class will be faced with three important duties: class leadership, Field Day planning, and Incomm participation. I feel that my experience as president of the Baker House Freshmen Council, chairman of a Field Day Committee, and leader of my section will enable me to bring valuable insight to these problems.

In particular, I shall direct my efforts towards the building of 1) greater class participation in student government, 2) better communication between officers and class by the initiation of a newsletter, 3) class unity through a social event (e.g. picnic, dance), and 4) a firmer financial position via a fund raising project (e.g. a concert).

If you are interested in the details of any of these ideas, I would enjoy talking with you. I can be reached at Baker Line 360.

The statements of Ed Yourdon and Edward Hoffer appeared last week in The Tech.
