Desert Expedition Planned

By David F. Trevey

Wanted: a student who speaks Hindi (or Dravidian dialects) to accompany an expedition to India and Iran.

At the invitation of several anthropologists in Iran, a group of MIT students are planning to make this trip this summer. Among those going are Warren Zopf, Norman Stolway, Abdul Hassan (from Pakistan), and Philip L. Hoffman (also of MIT) and a board of Warren's. Joe Tiel of Chase College, Cambridge University.

The trip this summer has possibly never been made before by Americans because of its unusual and difficult nature. After traveling across Europe to Turkey, they will have special permits and the necessary military means to pass through the mountains to Tehran, Iran.

After a week in Iran the group will push on across the desert to Kurrachi, Pakistan and New Delhi, India. During the month of the trip there will be a 400-800 mile airmail between guggle supplies, with temperatures ranging around 120 degrees.

Due to the expense of certain parts of the trip, the group is hoping to obtain sponsorship from Rambler Motor Co. in the form of a Land Rover Station Wagon and a helicopter with a mobile radio. They have also asked for sponsorship from several radio and TV companies.

Automatically
(and so will you)

You'll keep out of the rain without strain in this handsome Rambler convertible. The top flips up or down automatically - yet the rambler American "400" is the lowest priced U. S. convertible. Even lower priced than manual top jobs. Bucket seats, optional. Your Rambler is so stingy with gas you won't believe it's such a tiger for performance until you try it . . . at your Rambler dealer's.
