Foreign Students To View State Gov't

MIT's 800 foreign students, among the 4300 studying in Massachusetts this year, are invited to view the workings of Commonwealth government at the first International Student Day on October 26. The program, administered by Secretary of State Kevin H. White, was designed to give students "a first hand view of democratic institutions of government in practice."

The day will begin with tours of the Massachusetts State House, designed to give students an opportunity to meet legislators in their chambers. There will also be a panel discussing "Politics in Massachusetts." The day will end with a luncheon and reception for the students. Any student who has not yet replied to his invitation should contact the Foreign Students Office in 5-106.

Students will have an opportunity to meet the judges and editors of the student newspaper. Students are invited to meet legislators in their chambers. There will also be a panel discussing "Politics in Massachusetts."

Mrs. Karl Taylor Compton, widow of the former MIT president, is chairman of the committee arranging the luncheon and reception for the students. "We are eager," White says, "to have these students become aware of our government structure at the state level."

We are eager," White says, "to have these students become aware of our government structure at the state level."

The awards were presented to Dr. Guillemin, professor of electrical engineering education and to Dr. Shannon, professor of science and technology. Dr. C. E. Shannon were among the five electrical specialists to receive awards recently from the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. The awards were presented to Dr. Guillemin, professor of electrical engineering education and to Dr. Shannon, professor of science and technology. Dr. C. E. Shannon were among the five electrical specialists to receive awards recently from the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Assistant Professors

Gerald N. Wogan
Ronald T. McLaughlin
Robert J. Taylor, x3782.

PART-TIME WORK: Permanent job for paralegal and maimed college student as Hospital TV rental manager. Call LA 3-4212.

WANTED:

DANCE COMBO: Guitar, sax, piano, base, and drums. Ideal for parties. Everything from jazz and rock and roll to mood music. Call Roddy McDool, x3301.