Letters to The Tech

Professor takes issue with Editorial Interpretation

To The Editor:

Regarding your article in the November 22 issue, I think it is

MIT has long been troubled by the en-encroachment of research activities upon the traditional educational function because of the general trend towards a "university-based around science". For the same reason, it probably has a greater opportunity to break away the dictatorship between research and teaching.

The understanding of the effect of MIT’s huge $20 million for research vs. $30 million for academic operation in (N) research commission upon its educational policy, a little

First, MIT considers research by its staff members, particularly the teachers. Although this isn’t and Individuals Confidential).

Two most told against Powell by his men involves his allowing security officers to examine some of the usually complete records he put together with other evidence.

As a result of the series, Yale Provost Kingson received a strongly worded letter from Powell stating that the Provost was "not authorized to engage in the investigation of student or faculty activity...

supplied the buildings.

The purpose of the program is to obtain more information on the rate and mode of fire spread through a building. The results will hopefully lead to improved fire fighting equipment, techniques, and Preventive measures.
