Lack Of Student Participation
Main Problem In Feedback Plan

The freshmen feedback pro-ger response from the Study of the Student Committee on Educational Policy in 1962 was a second year at MIT.

Although much of the formal structure of the program was assumed enough to warrant con-

The afterthought of lack of student participation was the problem this year.

The subcommittee is presently investigating the desirability of feedback meetings on the sophomore level.

Feedback was organized in the spring term of 1961-the freshmen section and representatives of the Student Committee on Educational Policy. It was organized as an experimental unit and freshmen section.

In the full term of 1962-63 the program was expanded to include all three of the freshmen between this time. The objectives were to hear directly from representatives.

Course Selection

Straton, Bush Address Freshman Convocation

"Don't be guided by the enagagement notes, or the current popularity of a particular field. You can't outgrow the future of technology," said Professor Julius A. Straton turing an address to freshmen Monday evening in Kresge Auditorium.

Straton, who shared the platform with Dr. Vannevar Bush, professional people trained at MIT.

The man trained in industrial management coordinates the technological and human aspects of business firms.

Speaking to freshmen and sophomores who have not yet selected courses of study, Professor Straton urged them to "take full advantage of the departmental programs that have been planned for the students, as well as the open houses and other events that will be held.

Experiments Suspendned Due To Complaint

Thirty members of the Boy's Club of Cambridge were taken on a visit of MIT last Saturday afternoon by residents of Bennington.

In order to suspend the experiment on the report of the Institute's Associate Dean, Dr. Nevin S. Teuber, who must approve the project. This advertisement appeared in the MIT News of March 4, 1962.

The experiment, which was to be conducted at MIT for 12 high school students and known as "the will to meaning." It is explained in his book, "Man's Search for Meaning."

The man trained in the humanities and social sciences is concerned with social, as well as technical problems. His study provides a basis for the study of harmful drugs.

In response to a student complaint about payment for an economic experiment, Prof. Hans-

Lukas Teuber, Chairman of the Psychology Section, has ordered the experiment suspended and addition payment reversal.

Lave placed an advertisement in the MIT Daily Express last week for a 10-course summer session with undergraduates, but that he would place a noted advertisement in the campus paper and the set of harmful drugs.

Dr. Vannevar Bush preceded convocation exercises. He stressed the importance of the course decision and told the freshmen that they had come to MIT to acquire a greater understanding of nature and the laws that govern it.

The freshman convocation was part of the Faculty Advisory council program to help freshmen with their choice of courses.

The lecture will be sponsored by the Undergraduate Association at Harvard University.
