In memoriam

The devastating news that has shaken the nation leaves us feeling that any attempt at our grief over the loss is completely futile. Yet we must try; to do anything less would be to fall short in paying our full respects to President John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

When a President is killed, the entire nation looks to the news media for a guide to the tone and style of the coverage expected. And the American public will react to that special appeal which his new style and tone of mourning will convey.

Yet we must remember this for our endeavor in mourning is not a personal one. It is a national and multi-racial concern. America is our country.

In the words of President Julius A.8truck, "We have lost in a short hour the leader whose every approach to the great problems that beset us was enhanced by his devotion to facts and his nobling vision of the highest aspirations of American people."

We shall never forget that black day, Friday, November 22, 1963.

Letters to The Tech

Pen pals Wanted

Our dear unused friends.

You may be surprised to receive this letter, so we will first introduce ourselves to you. We are Japanese girls. We are 18 and 20 years old. The former is a law major at Meiji University in Tokyo. The latter graduated in March, 1964 with a Law degree. The latter is a pharmacist.

We plan to visit your country next year. We wish to know the life of American colleges, the students' opinions about their society, common way of life and thoughts of Americans, and to study pragmatics directly through our two senses.

We have known that there is no such word as 'love' in the dictionary of some American people. We wish to know true America very much. We would like to correspond with good students and friends, and when we visit your country we hope they will take us around your school. We would like to exchange opinions for our future society.

Hatako Ikuda (taller sister)
Toko Ikuda
465 Kugenuma
Fujisawa-Shi
Kanagawa-Ken
Japan

Kibitzer

By Alex Kinsky

Often the line of play for a hand cannot be determined before playing to the opening lead. How would you plan to play this hand?

West (dealer) East

East holds:

4

14 Pass Pass 14

West led the King of Clubs. If declarer wins the opening trick, place the Ace of Diamonds on trump, play the Ace of Diamonds, and then the diamonds will go down. As soon as East gets in with a heart, West will lead a heart, and West will take two hearts and a club, setting the contract one trick.

South would get sympathy from his opponents to a very large extent. As he expected to find the Queen of Clubs in West's hand since West's opening bid marked hearts, South would naturally begin with his heart.

The trick of the Ace of Clubs moved towards winning the hand, declarer had played low on the King of Clubs and West led the Club to ruff and take the trick.

North's Ace of Clubs and South's Ace of Diamonds from his hand. Then South led the Nine of Spades and was ruffed with the Ten of Spades. North's Eight of Clubs was taken with the Ten of Clubs, and South were ruffed with the Seven of Clubs.

Dummy was entered by lead of a low spade to the Eight of Clubs. Dummy discovered the Heart Ten and King of diamonds, making five spades.

Kibitzer

By Alex Kinsky

Often the line of play for a hand cannot be determined before playing to the opening lead. How would you plan to play this hand?

West (dealer) East

East holds:

4

14 Pass Pass 14

West led the King of Clubs. If declarer wins the opening trick, place the Ace of Diamonds on trump, play the Ace of Diamonds, and then the diamonds will go down. As soon as East gets in with a heart, West will lead a heart, and West will take two hearts and a club, setting the contract one trick.

South would get sympathy from his opponents to a very large extent. As he expected to find the Queen of Clubs in West's hand since West's opening bid marked hearts, South would naturally begin with his heart.

The trick of the Ace of Clubs moved towards winning the hand, declarer had played low on the King of Clubs and West led the Club to ruff and take the trick.

North's Ace of Clubs and South's Ace of Diamonds from his hand. Then South led the Nine of Spades and was ruffed with the Ten of Spades. North's Eight of Clubs was taken with the Ten of Clubs, and South were ruffed with the Seven of Clubs.

Dummy was entered by lead of a low spade to the Eight of Clubs. Dummy discovered the Heart Ten and King of diamonds, making five spades.