In his just-released 1963 report, President Stratton says "there is often serious questioning of ... an increasing identification of the Institute with research on a large scale."

The President made particular note of the sharp increase in research spending. Last year money for research exceeded outlays for education by $4 million.

Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of... Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education. Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education.

In his just-released 1963 report, President Stratton says "there is often serious questioning of ... an increasing identification of the Institute with research on a large scale."

Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education. Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education.

The President made particular note of the sharp increase in research spending. Last year money for research exceeded outlays for education by $4 million.

Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education.

In his just-released 1963 report, President Stratton says "there is often serious questioning of ... an increasing identification of the Institute with research on a large scale."

Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education.

The President made particular note of the sharp increase in research spending. Last year money for research exceeded outlays for education by $4 million.

Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education.

In his just-released 1963 report, President Stratton says "there is often serious questioning of ... an increasing identification of the Institute with research on a large scale."

Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education.

The President made particular note of the sharp increase in research spending. Last year money for research exceeded outlays for education by $4 million.

Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education.

In his just-released 1963 report, President Stratton says "there is often serious questioning of ... an increasing identification of the Institute with research on a large scale."

Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education.

The President made particular note of the sharp increase in research spending. Last year money for research exceeded outlays for education by $4 million.

Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education.

In his just-released 1963 report, President Stratton says "there is often serious questioning of ... an increasing identification of the Institute with research on a large scale."

Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education.

The President made particular note of the sharp increase in research spending. Last year money for research exceeded outlays for education by $4 million.

Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education.

In his just-released 1963 report, President Stratton says "there is often serious questioning of ... an increasing identification of the Institute with research on a large scale."

Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education.

The President made particular note of the sharp increase in research spending. Last year money for research exceeded outlays for education by $4 million.

Referring to these statistics, some people would cut the rate of growth of education.