New ‘Social Beaver’ to have expanded format

Tentative plans have been made to expand the forthcoming issue of the Social Beaver to serve the entire undergraduate body. The Social Beaver, in past years, has been distributed only to the incoming freshmen to acquaint them with the Boston area.

“The main problem,” says John Davis, editor of the 1964 issue, “is in financing the expansion.” The exact cost has not been calculated, but, hopefully, Davis, the additional cost will be satisfied by an increase both in the number of advertisers and in the advertising rate.

The editorial board will consist of representatives from the existing student activities.

Is today’s college education really different from that of eighty years ago? A recent feature article in The Tulane Bulletin described a publication that would be in the antique document department — Tulane’s “Cato.”

John Davis, the editor of the 1964 issue, “is in financing the expansion.” The exact cost has not been calculated, but, hopefully, Davis, the additional cost will be satisfied by an increase both in the number of advertisers and in the advertising rate.

The editorial board will consist of representatives from the existing student activities.

By Toby Zidie

College World

‘Ignorance and lethargy in Louisiana redeemable by potent agency’

The exact cost has not been calculated, but, hopefully, Davis, the additional cost will be satisfied by an increase both in the number of advertisers and in the advertising rate.

The editorial board will consist of representatives from the existing student activities.

New ‘Social Beaver’ to have expanded format

Tentative plans have been made to expand the forthcoming issue of the Social Beaver to serve the entire undergraduate body. The Social Beaver, in past years, has been distributed only to the incoming freshmen to acquaint them with the Boston area.

“The main problem,” says John Davis, editor of the 1964 issue, “is in financing the expansion.” The exact cost has not been calculated, but, hopefully, Davis, the additional cost will be satisfied by an increase both in the number of advertisers and in the advertising rate.

The editorial board will consist of representatives from the existing student activities.

Is today’s college education really different from that of eighty years ago? A recent feature article in The Tulane Bulletin described a publication that would be in the antique document department — Tulane’s “Cato.”

John Davis, the editor of the 1964 issue, “is in financing the expansion.” The exact cost has not been calculated, but, hopefully, Davis, the additional cost will be satisfied by an increase both in the number of advertisers and in the advertising rate.

The editorial board will consist of representatives from the existing student activities.

New ‘Social Beaver’ to have expanded format

Tentative plans have been made to expand the forthcoming issue of the Social Beaver to serve the entire undergraduate body. The Social Beaver, in past years, has been distributed only to the incoming freshmen to acquaint them with the Boston area.

“The main problem,” says John Davis, editor of the 1964 issue, “is in financing the expansion.” The exact cost has not been calculated, but, hopefully, Davis, the additional cost will be satisfied by an increase both in the number of advertisers and in the advertising rate.

The editorial board will consist of representatives from the existing student activities.

Is today’s college education really different from that of eighty years ago? A recent feature article in The Tulane Bulletin described a publication that would be in the antique document department — Tulane’s “Cato.”

John Davis, the editor of the 1964 issue, “is in financing the expansion.” The exact cost has not been calculated, but, hopefully, Davis, the additional cost will be satisfied by an increase both in the number of advertisers and in the advertising rate.

The editorial board will consist of representatives from the existing student activities.

New ‘Social Beaver’ to have expanded format

Tentative plans have been made to expand the forthcoming issue of the Social Beaver to serve the entire undergraduate body. The Social Beaver, in past years, has been distributed only to the incoming freshmen to acquaint them with the Boston area.

“The main problem,” says John Davis, editor of the 1964 issue, “is in financing the expansion.” The exact cost has not been calculated, but, hopefully, Davis, the additional cost will be satisfied by an increase both in the number of advertisers and in the advertising rate.

The editorial board will consist of representatives from the existing student activities.

Is today’s college education really different from that of eighty years ago? A recent feature article in The Tulane Bulletin described a publication that would be in the antique document department — Tulane’s “Cato.”

John Davis, the editor of the 1964 issue, “is in financing the expansion.” The exact cost has not been calculated, but, hopefully, Davis, the additional cost will be satisfied by an increase both in the number of advertisers and in the advertising rate.

The editorial board will consist of representatives from the existing student activities.

New ‘Social Beaver’ to have expanded format

Tentative plans have been made to expand the forthcoming issue of the Social Beaver to serve the entire undergraduate body. The Social Beaver, in past years, has been distributed only to the incoming freshmen to acquaint them with the Boston area.

“The main problem,” says John Davis, editor of the 1964 issue, “is in financing the expansion.” The exact cost has not been calculated, but, hopefully, Davis, the additional cost will be satisfied by an increase both in the number of advertisers and in the advertising rate.

The editorial board will consist of representatives from the existing student activities.

Is today’s college education really different from that of eighty years ago? A recent feature article in The Tulane Bulletin described a publication that would be in the antique document department — Tulane’s “Cato.”

John Davis, the editor of the 1964 issue, “is in financing the expansion.” The exact cost has not been calculated, but, hopefully, Davis, the additional cost will be satisfied by an increase both in the number of advertisers and in the advertising rate.

The editorial board will consist of representatives from the existing student activities.

New ‘Social Beaver’ to have expanded format

Tentative plans have been made to expand the forthcoming issue of the Social Beaver to serve the entire undergraduate body. The Social Beaver, in past years, has been distributed only to the incoming freshmen to acquaint them with the Boston area.

“The main problem,” says John Davis, editor of the 1964 issue, “is in financing the expansion.” The exact cost has not been calculated, but, hopefully, Davis, the additional cost will be satisfied by an increase both in the number of advertisers and in the advertising rate.

The editorial board will consist of representatives from the existing student activities.

Is today’s college education really different from that of eighty years ago? A recent feature article in The Tulane Bulletin described a publication that would be in the antique document department — Tulane’s “Cato.”

John Davis, the editor of the 1964 issue, “is in financing the expansion.” The exact cost has not been calculated, but, hopefully, Davis, the additional cost will be satisfied by an increase both in the number of advertisers and in the advertising rate.

The editorial board will consist of representatives from the existing student activities.

New ‘Social Beaver’ to have expanded format

Tentative plans have been made to expand the forthcoming issue of the Social Beaver to serve the entire undergraduate body. The Social Beaver, in past years, has been distributed only to the incoming freshmen to acquaint them with the Boston area.

“The main problem,” says John Davis, editor of the 1964 issue, “is in financing the expansion.” The exact cost has not been calculated, but, hopefully, Davis, the additional cost will be satisfied by an increase both in the number of advertisers and in the advertising rate.

The editorial board will consist of representatives from the existing student activities.