Winning spring seen for Engineers

Golf squad to make spring trip south to gain week's head start on season

While most schools in the area wait impatiently for Mother Nature to release her icy grip on the course, the MIT golf team, under the leadership of Coach John Merritt, is planning a week's head start on the season with an April 12-13 trip to the Florida State Open, sponsored by the University of Florida, which will be a very valuable part of the team's spring season and will also help in the recruiting of new members.

Promising lacrosse squad to kick off spring trip at Maryland March 31 looking for better season

By NEAL GILMAN

The MIT varsity lacrosse team, which will be looking for its second straight New England champion, is looking forward to the spring with enthusiasm. The team, which has won the New England title the past two years, should be a force to be reckoned with in the upcoming season.

The team will be led by senior co-captains John Egan '65 and John Kelly '65, who were both All-American selections last year. Egan was named to the All-American team for the second straight year, while Kelly was a first team selection. Other returning players include junior co-captains Bill Dunford '64, Mike Monsler '64, and junior Jack Moter '64, who will be looking to make an impact on the team.

The team will begin its season March 31 at Maryland, where it will face the Terrapins and the Loyola Greyhounds. The trip will be an opportunity for the team to evaluate its strengths and weaknesses and to get a feel for the competition it will face in the upcoming season.

Meanwhile, the team will be working on its conditioning and skill development. The team will be holding practices throughout the winter, and the coaches are hoping to see improvement in the team's overall play.

The team is looking forward to the opportunity to compete against some of the top teams in the country, and the players are excited to be able to test themselves against the best. The team is confident that it can be a successful season, and the players are eager to get started.

Fencers 22nd in tournament

By Herb Zweigstein

A three-team match between MIT placed twenty-second in a field of teams from nine schools in the NCAA Fencing Championships held at Harvard last Saturday and Sunday. The Engineers were able to win forty-five of their 102 bouts, while first place Princeton won eighty-one, and New York University placed second, with fourteen victories each. Princeton placed seventh in the Eastern Conference (where MIT placed twelfth) as the team that finished last year.

The tournament was held in memory of Andrew J. Zim., a former MIT fencer.

Zimmerman takes 135

By Ralph Zimmerman '64

A three-team match between MIT placed twenty-second in a field of teams from nine schools in the NCAA Fencing Championships held at Harvard last Saturday and Sunday. The Engineers were able to win forty-five of their 102 bouts, while first place Princeton won eighty-one, and New York University placed second, with fourteen victories each. Princeton placed seventh in the Eastern Conference (where MIT placed twelfth) as the team that finished last year.

The tournament was held in memory of Andrew J. Zim., a former MIT fencer.