characteristic is not his Ivy League attitude nor his wit with women, but his depth of understanding of the basic concepts of science, engineering and the humanities. More, the successful student who has acquired social and civic reponsibility, taste for the excellent things in life, and the spirit of leadership which has kept MIT in its top position in the world of education and research.

The particular emphasis on the student's development are up to the individual. He may enjoy athletics, politics, newswriting or music; he may major in physics or in economics, major in a management career or a pre-med student. Awareness of the variety of careers, and the realization of the importance of indi-dividual accomplishment will help the student to create his own 'MIT image.'

Activity finances

The recent history of one well-established campus organization re-emphasizes the necessity of accurate and thorough record-keeping. An annual turnover of cash in one sectional.

It is clear that because of the diversities in size and directions of our activities, a more standard, right system of bookkeeping could be appropriate. It is now within the powers of the Finance Board to not require presentation of any necessary for exploitation, irresponsibility, or petty politics. The annual turnover of extension groups have been offensive to students and administration alike.

Of course, around the campus there are plenty of images to conform to — fraternity images, activities images, polit-cal images, etc. The student himself will provide the key to success at any particular man. Recent magazine atttempts to classify all MIT students under one heading have been offensive to students and administration alike.

Of course, around the campus there are plenty of images to conform to —

fraternity images, activities images, polit-

cal images, etc. The student himself will

provide the key to success at any

particular man. Recent magazine at-
ttempts to classify all MIT students under

one heading have been offensive to students and administration alike.

The MIT Bridge Club has the podium of the first tournament it sponsored from the Swedish Charitable Society for African Children, and which is the latest extension of the "Acquaintance Dance?" on 5 to 12 Friday. Admission is 50 cents.

Two other mixers also are scheduled for Friday. Garfield

Junior College will hold one on 5:30 to 8:30 in the School of Com-mmerce. No other information was available, so you can assume by want anyone else. The other is a beginners, not a great distance for those of you with cars, is sponsored by the Aquila Club, a senior organization that has had an affiliated with the Swedish Charitable Society for African Children. This mixer is mentioned, the club's proposer found raising, so there will likely be a change. The dance is at the Viking Club. There will be Such movies and American dances.

Buton University will have an all-university mixer this Friday at the School of Public Communications, 644 Cambridge Street, at 8:00. All info is a supposedly for BU students, Tech are generally welcome.

That about covers this week. With more school openings and other getting better organized, one should be looking ahead.

Chez Laurenne

Two Tech mixers, Garland, BU stand out from general confusion Confusion runs rampant at Boston Tech's mixer this time week. It appears that the mixer information exists in the mixer itself. Dormitory social club mixers and other college mixer information were more likely to invite if YOU knew any rumors their girls could adjust.

As it is, however, since a few schools have emerged from the dust, a Schedule enough to start thinking about girls meeting.

This Friday the IDC, coming to the rescue of the dandiest tech image,' is holding a mixer in the Memorial. Admission is $1.00 for freshmen, although tickets to all are supposed to be available in 10 buildings this week. If feature Richard Martineau.

Copeing with IDC is Burton

Society LaBreche, an Acquaintance Dance? on on the strength of a suit and a

ed hearts

o show

ment of the first tournatments for atty of payments for

AII

Kibitzer

By Allen Blansky

The MIT Bridge Club

sponsored an undertake the "Acquaintance Dance?" on

5 to 12 Friday. Admission is 50 cents.

The results: One freshman team took first place.

The Club team consisted of the pairs Shanty-Skely and the unknowns. For $1.00, you can become a member of the Bridge Club and ex para-elite. Female members are up to the individually. He may be a pre-med student. Awareness of the variety of careers, and the realization of the importance of individual accomplishment will help the student to create his own 'MIT image.' probably freshman comes to MIT with some idea of the Tech 'image.'

The MIT can claim one of the most truly large attendance this year. To the credit of the recent history of one well-established campus organization re-emphasizes the necessity of accurate and thorough

record-keeping. An annual turnover of

cash in one sectional.

It is clear that because of the diversi-

ties in size and directions of our activities, a

more standard, right system of book-

keeping could be appropriate. It is now

within the powers of the Finance Board to

not require presentation of any

necessary for exploitation, irresponsibility,
or petty politics. The annual turnover

of extension groups have been offensive to students and administration alike.

Of course, around the campus there are plenty of images to conform to —

fraternity images, activities images, polit-

cal images, etc. The student himself will

provide the key to success at any

particular man. Recent magazine at-
ttempts to classify all MIT students under

one heading have been offensive to students and administration alike.

Of course, around the campus there are plenty of images to conform to —

fraternity images, activities images, polit-

cal images, etc. The student himself will

provide the key to success at any

particular man. Recent magazine at-
ttempts to classify all MIT students under

one heading have been offensive to students and administration alike.