Soccer squad expects top year despite losses

The MIT soccer team is again looking for a very good season out of the boys who have returned from their time in the New England league. The team, under the guidance of Head Coach Ralph Copperman '49, includes the most experienced squad ever, with six returning players, including two seniors and three juniors. The team is expected to compete strongly against the top teams in the conference and to qualify for the New England playoffs.

Mid-Atlanticics

Sailors lead New Englanders to win

By W. Thomas Compton

The MIT sailing team got off to a good start last weekend helping the New England team win the Mid-Atlantic 3-2 at King's Point, New York. The New England team consisted of the Coast Guard, Coast Guard Academy, and Yale. The team, under the guidance of putting the regattas together, also includes three-time All-American Evan Dolan '65. Also helping the team was Dan Dunford and Warren Littlefield. Canadian Henley championship finally strong showing cindert na.

Mid-Athletidats

Swanz captains

The MIT Athletic Association is made up of representatives from each of the athletic programs. The captains of each sport together form the T-Cub Club headed by the President of the T-Cub Club. The T-Cub Club is responsible for making decisions that benefit the athletes and coaches of each sport. The head manager of each sport is the coach's delegate to the Athletic Association.

One of the most important aspects of the athletic program at MIT is the role played by the Athletic Association and the T-Cub Club. The T-Cub Club is responsible for making decisions that benefit the athletes and coaches of each sport. The head manager of each sport is the coach's delegate to the Athletic Association.

Farnham coaches touring US team

Art Farnham, MIT's head track and cross-country coach, spent his spring coaching a U.S. national team touring West Africa under the auspices of the AAI and the State Department. The trip, which began in January, included seven athletes and a manager, covered five countries as good-fellow missionaries. The team, which ran from mid-February until June, included the countries of Senegal, Guinea, Nigeria, Mali, and the Republic of the Congo.

There were three general areas of activity undertaken by the team on this trip. The first was the actual running of races, which took place in a variety of locations, from the fast-paced track meets of New York City to the more sedate races of the southern states. The team was able to adapt to a variety of conditions and was able to perform well in a variety of settings.

The second area of activity was the education of the athletes. Farnham and his assistants were able to provide the competition of the intercollegiate schedule as well as the casual atmosphere of intra-collegiate meet in New York. Under the control of the AAI, the team was able to use the facilities and medical care of the community. The team was able to travel and compete in a variety of locations, from the fast-paced track meets of New York City to the more sedate races of the southern states. The team was able to adapt to a variety of conditions and was able to perform well in a variety of settings.

The third area of activity was the education of the athletes. Farnham and his assistants were able to provide the competition of the intercollegiate schedule as well as the casual atmosphere of intra-collegiate meet in New York. Under the control of the AAI, the team was able to use the facilities and medical care of the community. The team was able to travel and compete in a variety of locations, from the fast-paced track meets of New York City to the more sedate races of the southern states. The team was able to adapt to a variety of conditions and was able to perform well in a variety of settings.

Farnham, who is well known for his coaching abilities, was able to provide the team with a wealth of knowledge and experience. He was able to help the team develop the skills and techniques needed to succeed at a high level of competition. The team was able to adapt to a variety of conditions and was able to perform well in a variety of settings.

The team's success was a result of the dedication and hard work of the athletes, as well as the guidance and support of Farnham and his assistants. The team was able to adapt to a variety of conditions and was able to perform well in a variety of settings.

The team's success was a result of the dedication and hard work of the athletes, as well as the guidance and support of Farnham and his assistants. The team was able to adapt to a variety of conditions and was able to perform well in a variety of settings.

The team's success was a result of the dedication and hard work of the athletes, as well as the guidance and support of Farnham and his assistants. The team was able to adapt to a variety of conditions and was able to perform well in a variety of settings.

The team's success was a result of the dedication and hard work of the athletes, as well as the guidance and support of Farnham and his assistants. The team was able to adapt to a variety of conditions and was able to perform well in a variety of settings.