Basketball team to open Saturday at Bowdoin

After nearly four weeks of getting into shape and working on both fundamentals and patterns, Coach Arnold Singal's freshmen basketball team will open up its 1964-65 season with a game this Saturday against Bowdoin College. Three practice games were scheduled previously against tough opponents such as Boston College and Salem Teachers College in order to be sure that the team would be ready for the season opener. In June, the team went through a grueling 14-day training camp in Hawaii. The freshmen squad team in several years. The fall squad seems to be in better shape than ever before, with Fritz Schafer '66 and Ralph Schmidt '66. Small wonder, with star defensemen and Co-capt. Scott Briggs '66, the team is holding only one practice a week in preparation for its opening game against U. of Mass. on December 5 at Amherst.
