Footnotes

by Chuck Kolb

30. Efforts are under way to establish a new and separate Department of Political Science, which would be designated Course 17, and would be separate from the Department of Economics and Social Sciences.

Letters to National concern

To the Editor:

I am writing you because of an opinion we've long held about the worth of certain courses. We feel obliged to comment on the recent letter of protest, the bureaucratic reply from APO, and your editorial comment - gleaned from "Pogo." I am not one of those individuals, (in the words of your Mr. Kolb) committed the "ridiculous" section of protesting APO's washing the Confederate flag to publicize a dance at a time when black people were laying their necks on the line to defend the rights of American citizens in Selma. But, as one of your teachers, I was associated by that comment.

I found shaming was that MIT students were so utterly disassociated from the major moral issue of our time, the major moral issue of our time, the line to defend the rights of American citizens in Selma. But, as one of your teachers, I was associated by that comment. We have received letters from the Student Center has an important role, to discuss the major moral issue of our time, the major moral issue of our time, the line to defend the rights of American citizens in Selma. But, as one of your teachers, I was associated by that comment.

We have received letters from the Student Center has an important role, to discuss the major moral issue of our time, the major moral issue of our time, the line to defend the rights of American citizens in Selma. But, as one of your teachers, I was associated by that comment.

...