Co-ed sailors win Dartmouth Invitations

This weekend proved to be a very successful one for the women sailors for they won a first and a third and a second in the two regattas they entered.

At the Dartmouth Invitational May 3, The Coed Sailors had a score of 36 and were victorious over the other three competing schools—Connecticut College (28), Smith (52), and Northwestern University (22). The regatta was divided into two divisions in which Ruth Beckley '67 and Barbara Demond '67 skippered and Sandy Foote '67 and Ruth Peterson '67 crewed. Barbara was awarded the Dartmouth Spring Women's Invitational Regatta Trophy for being the high scoring skipper with a score of 19 out of 20. At the regatta hosted by the University of Rhode Island, May 1, Alex Ensign '67 with Mary Gordon '67 skippering carried home the honors for Tech. With a score of 27 they placed third out of eight teams, beaten only by Simon's 30 and University's 30 and Rhode Island's 30.

Sailing in Beverly Dinghies, girls two first two third two third, one fourth, and one drew from the last two.
