Film on work of Foreign Service to emphasize career opportunities

Mr. Paul F. Geren, a Foreign Service Officer of the Department of State, will be at MIT October 4 to discuss the work of the U.S. Foreign Service with interested students.

A film depicting aspects of the Foreign Service's work in Equador, titled "The Unending Struggle," will be shown. Following the film, Mr. Geren will answer questions on careers in the Foreign Service.

The next written examination for the Foreign Service will be held December 14. Applications must be filed before October 18.

Waid scholarship set for graduate student

Eugene Darwin Czek, a graduate student at MIT's school of architecture and planning, has received a $300 Waid Scholarship for the 1965-66 academic year.

The Waid Education Fund, established by Dan Everett Wald, is administered by the American Institute of Architects and has awarded a total of $53,800 in scholarships for advanced study during the coming year.
