The Beatles' newest single release shows all the signs of becoming their first truly remarkable hit. "We Can Work It Out" and "Day Tripper" are very strong. Appropriately enough, the Capitol Records label and according to Capitol Records the two are more or less equally requested by record buyers. The closest the British bandleader had previously come to having two equally popular songs was his "Help!" record, released last year. The "Beatles" have achieved a degree of prominence that they did not, perhaps, ever anticipate. Although "A Taste of Honey" was not quite as big a single hit as their "Help!" hit, the album contains seven of the four top forty songs, an achievement only the Beatles could have realized by observing the top albums chart. With four albums among Billboard's top 100, the Beatles have more such songs than any other artist. "Whipped Cream and Other Delights," the album with the provocative cover, is currently the nation's number one album. This is the album which features "A Taste of Honey." After dropping off the charts, two of their albums, "South of the Border" and "The Lonely Bull," have made major comebacks in the last two weeks, according to Billboard. The "Beatles" have achieved number seven and "Bull" number 10 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Billboard; however, it will take several weeks to discern whether or not these records will remain in the top 150 for Advertisement