 DUPONT GRANT AIDS RESEARCH

MIT has received a grant of $36,000 from the E. I. Du Pont Company's annual program of education. It was announced Sunday.

The grants are intended to strengthen the teaching of science and engineering, particularly at the undergraduate level. Other applications include fundamental research and new facilities.

With the $32,000, the total amount of Du Pont grants will go toward fundamental research and graduate student study in chemistry, physics, chemical engineering and medicine at MIT. The grants will be allotted to the advancement of the purpose to which the grant was designed and the same amount to the advancement of teaching of engineering.

The work to be supported will be chosen by the recipient department, but should be research that could be done with the normal resources of the department. The awards are free to publish the results of their work.

The Du Pont program, which was first made possible by an endowment with university research funds, was adopted in 1946. It was reactivated in recent years to cover many other needs of education. The emphasis on teaching in the 1946 grants reflects the concern often expressed by educators for the need improving teaching. These years grants, distributed among 213 colleges and universities, of which $897,000 went to teaching.

By Dave Kaye

Expenses paid in full are essential at being unable to provide The registration forms are being registration list to photograph, Mr.

The work of the Baker Award will be presented April 22 at the annual Awards Convocation. The committee wishes to emphasize that a nomination need contain only one letter explaining why the nominee deserves the award. Nomination petitions are not necessary.

The award, consisting of a $500 honorarium and a bronze medal, will be presented April 23 at the annual Awards Convocation.

The Baker Foundation was established in 1951 to perpetuate the annual Awards Convocation. The committee wishes to emphasize that a nomination need contain only one letter explaining why the nominee deserves the award. Nomination petitions are not necessary.

The work of the Baker Award will be presented April 22 at the annual Awards Convocation. The committee wishes to emphasize that a nomination need contain only one letter explaining why the nominee deserves the award. Nomination petitions are not necessary.

The work of the Baker Award will be presented April 22 at the annual Awards Convocation. The committee wishes to emphasize that a nomination need contain only one letter explaining why the nominee deserves the award. Nomination petitions are not necessary.

The work of the Baker Award will be presented April 22 at the annual Awards Convocation. The committee wishes to emphasize that a nomination need contain only one letter explaining why the nominee deserves the award. Nomination petitions are not necessary.

The work of the Baker Award will be presented April 22 at the annual Awards Convocation. The committee wishes to emphasize that a nomination need contain only one letter explaining why the nominee deserves the award. Nomination petitions are not necessary.

The work of the Baker Award will be presented April 22 at the annual Awards Convocation. The committee wishes to emphasize that a nomination need contain only one letter explaining why the nominee deserves the award. Nomination petitions are not necessary.

The work of the Baker Award will be presented April 22 at the annual Awards Convocation. The committee wishes to emphasize that a nomination need contain only one letter explaining why the nominee deserves the award. Nomination petitions are not necessary.

The work of the Baker Award will be presented April 22 at the annual Awards Convocation. The committee wishes to emphasize that a nomination need contain only one letter explaining why the nominee deserves the award. Nomination petitions are not necessary.

The work of the Baker Award will be presented April 22 at the annual Awards Convocation. The committee wishes to emphasize that a nomination need contain only one letter explaining why the nominee deserves the award. Nomination petitions are not necessary.